No Air Monopoly

One Mellon Plan

Current Events

MUSSOLINI sweeps Italy, which needn't surprise anybody. What the world wants now is strong men that say what they mean and then do it. Mussolini is that kind. Italy knows it.

THE SENATE passed a bill that, let us hope, will forever prevent a monopoly of the air by any interested group of grafting financiers. The Senate declares the air to be "the inalienable possession of the people," and forbids any licenses extending more than two years.

THAT'S common sense, and it's a joke on our self-government, that the air monopoly should have been suggested.

Monopoly of LAND by individuals is bad enough. But that's necessary, for you have to work the land.

But you don't have to work the AIR; that takes care of itself, and it ought to remain free.

FREDERICK LANDIS says that this country, instead of admitting gorillas that come here to die of homesickness, ought to admit more of the right kind of European immigrants that would come here to build up the United States and LIVE.

SECRETARY MELLON'S tax plan would save three hundred million dollars a year for twenty years—six thousand million dollars all together. That fact is called to the attention of gentlemen now nagging the Secretary of the Treasury, one of the most useful servants that this country has ever secured.

If the people give him a chance Mr. Mellon will put their finances in good shape before he leaves his place. If they don't want him to do it, that won't annoy him. He probably isn't anxious to work for nothing, plus ingratitude.

NEW YORK is proud, learning from United States authorities that New York's port handled more than one-half of the total ocean passenger traffic of the United States. Seattle, Boston and San Francisco were next.

THAT'S TODAY'S news. How long do you suppose it will be before Miami and Los Angeles both have an ocean traffic bigger than that of which New York is so proud today? This country is only starting, and the really big ports and cities are still to find their place.

TWO AMERICANS are killed by Albanian brigands. The government of Albania expresses surprise, and says it is something entirely new.

But it isn't quite new. The late Albert Brisbane, a citizen of New York, traveling from Berlin to Athens on horseback with two servants, a little more than twenty years ago, was obliged when he passed through Albania to ride in the heat of the day, when the brigands were asleep, and in spite of all precautions, he once narrowly escaped the

Bobbed Bay State Girl Held as Bandit

TWO POLICEMEN BEATEN; HARVARD 'NOBLE' HELD

HOLD GIRL AS 'BANDIT QUEEN'

Sarah Duffy, Seized With Husband and Brothers, Led Lynn "Gang," Police Claim

Mrs. Sarah Butler Duffy, sought for weeks by police of Lynn and other cities as an alleged automobile thief and leader of a gang of young bandits, was arrested in New York today.

Inspector Roger Dwyer of the Lynn department led New York detectives in a sensational raid on Mrs. Duffy's uptown apartment.

Otto Duffy, the young woman's husband, her brothers John and James and James Daly were arrested also. James Daly and James Butler were charged with the possession of narcotics. John Duffy was taken on a warrant sworn to by a Boston girl.

Accompanied by the Bay State officer and New York headquarters sleuths, Mrs. Duffy was taken to Brooklyn, where storekeepers recently robbed by the famous "bobbed haired bandit" confronted the Duffy woman. They failed to identify her.

HELD AS CAR THIEVES.

In the arrest of young Mrs. Duffy the Lynn police are positive they have in custody the "brains" of the gang responsible for the theft of half a dozen motor cars during the month of December, 1923.

Frederick McCormick of Apponaug, R. I., Mrs. Duffy's alleged aid, is now in jail at Cranston, R. I. He was arrested in Pawtucket on December 23 and remanded without bail to await Grand Jury action.

MARY GARDEN, 47, TO BECOME U. S. CITIZEN

New York, April 8.—Mary Garden, opera singer, today applied for first citizenship papers.

Mary Garden.

She said she was born February 20, 1877, at Aberdeen, Scotland, and that she came to this country from Glasgow in 1882.

She described herself as unmarried, having a "fair complexion," dark red hair and blue eyes, five feet inches tall and weighing 120 pounds."

In the oaths administered by Chief Wieser of the naturalization bureau she declared it was her intention to become a citizen and to renounce her British allegiance.

MERRIMAC VALLEY IS FLOODED

Rapid Rising of River Menaces Homes and Factories; the Loss Totals $2,000,000

The terror of floods and high water which has threatened the valley of the Connecticut River for the past twenty-four hours has shifted to the valley of the Merrimac.

While the waters of many of the tributaries of the Connecticut are subsiding, the Merrimac is rapidly approaching the danger mark.

The Boston and Maine Railroad has a large force of workers out on the Worcester, Nashua and Portland division, fearing washouts.

The Soubegan River, which flows into the Merrimac at Nashua, N. H. has reached a higher stage than at any time since 1869 and the waters are still rising.

The flood is threatening the basement of the Jackson Mills, but so far the damage to the mill has been small.

The north branch of the Nashua River in the vicinity of Fitchburg has receded somewhat and it is believed that the crest of the flood on this stream has been reached.

FLOOD ALONG CONCORD.

The rising waters of the Piscataqua River at Manchester, N. H., caused a property loss of $25,000.

The cement wall of the Leandre Charbonneau Shoe Shop on Second street, West Manchester, collapsed under pressure of the high water and a short time later the south wall of the building fell, carrying the floors of the structure with it. The water has reached the highest level in the history of the city.

Five boys were thrown into the waters of the Piscataqua when a raft on which they were riding capsized. They were rescued by passersby.

A dam at Warner's Pond, Derry, N. H., gave way, badly damaging a bridge nearby.

The Concord River has overflowed its banks until the stream appears more like a lake than like a river. The river has gone up fifteen inches since Sunday and at Concord a number of cellars have been flooded. The water is now within a short distance of scores of homes in Concord Centre. The stream is said to have reached the highest stage in more than ten years.

At least one life and property damage amounting to $2,000,000 make up the toll that the floods have already

DRIVEN OUT BY FIRE IN ALLSTON BLOCK

TENANTS WHO FLED FLAMES

Many women and children were forced out of an apartment house at 209 Warren street, Allston, today by a blaze which caused $500 damage. The picture shows Mrs. Sidney Norris, at top, and her son, Jack, at lower right. The other child is Virginia Harrington.

FIFTY ROUTED BY FIRE IN ALLSTON

Fifty persons, including many women and children, were driven out by fire in the four-story brick apartment at No. 209 Warren street, Allston, today.

Mrs. Sidney Morris and her little son, Jack, were among those driven out, while Virginia Harrington was taken to safety by tenants.

The fire was discovered by a passer-by who saw smoke pouring from the basement windows. Occupants of the building were aroused by firemen who rang the bells and pounded at doors to arouse them.

The blaze gained considerable headway before brought under control, but was confined to the walls and ceiling of the cellar. District Chief McMahon said it was probably caused by spontaneous combustion in a heap of rubbish.

The tenants were sheltered by neighbors. Damage to the building and contents was about $500. The owner is John LaPlante, who occupies one of the apartments.

GREENE CASE AT DAUGHERTY HEARING

Washington, April 8.—Former Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty was advised today by friends in Columbus that all of his personal files for twenty years back had been burglarized.

The files were removed to Daugherty's home in Columbus from his law office when he became Attorney-General in 1921. The robbery is said to have occurred last Friday night but Daugherty did not learn of it until today.

Washington, April 8.—George W. Stock, a Department of Justice accountant, was questioned by the Daugherty committee today about the Henry V. Greene case, a $50,000,000 mail fraud case in Boston.

It was a "stock selling system," Stock said, and in his investigation Greene told him he could not proceed, as "Harry M Daugherty was his attorney."

The witness fixed the date, however, before Daugherty became Attorney-General. He said he recom-

WOMAN IS VICTIM OF APHASIA

Mary Thompson of Somerville Mysteriously Vanishes While on Trip to New York

A suitcase, owned by Miss Mary Thompson of Somerville, and found on Fifth avenue, New York, set New York detectives on a hunt today for the woman, who has vanished in mysterious fashion.

The suitcase contained two bankbooks, one showing deposits of $200 in a Somerville bank, the other $3,000 in a Woburn bank; an insurance policy and several dresses.

According to Mrs. William Graham of No. 60 Newton street, Somerville, a sister of the missing woman, Miss Thompson left Somerville Sunday, March 9. She had been acting strangely for some time past, according to the sister, and on one occasion left her suitcase in Union square, Somerville.

VICTIM OF APHASIA.

At that time the Somerville police believed the owner had met with foul play. Later, however, she returned home.

Today her sister declared she believed Miss Thompson to be a victim of aphasia and wandering around New York. According to the New York police, she was last seen Friday night by her roommate. At that time the Somerville woman said she intended visiting the travelers' Aid Society. She never reached there.

Chief of Police Kendall of Somerville received a telegram from Chief Inspector Leahy of New York today, asking information regarding the missing woman from the Somerville sister.

The missing woman is forty-seven years old, five feet eleven inches tall, with dark hair, blue eyes and dark complexion.

Robert Thompson of No. 17 Chapple street, Charlestown, a brother of Miss Thompson, left for New York today immediately on receiving word of his sister's disappearance.

STUDENT OF PARIS IS ACCUSED

Henri de Castellane, Prominent in College, in an Early Morning Row With Police

Henri de Castellane, Harvard student and son of a French nobleman, displayed his aristocratic prowess with such telling effect today that one policeman went to the hospital to be sewed up and another is nursing the effects of a scrimmage.

The sequel is that the son of the nobleman faces charges of drunkenness and assault and battery on Patrolmen Lawrence Boyle and Joseph Gallant of the Joy street station.

Henri de Castellane is the nephew of the Duchess of Talvmond, the former Anna Gould and sister of Count Boni de Castellane.

It was Harvard Day in Municipal court as several former Crimson athletes, a coterie of lawyers and others choked the corridors as a preliminary to arraignment of Castellane and a companion, Andrew Lynch, a former Harvard student.

Lynch is charged with drunkenness.

HEARD CRASH OF GLASS.

Patrolman Boyle, according to his story, heard the crash of glass while on Hanover street early today. Seeing an automobile approaching, with five men aboard, he stopped it.

"Come out," said Boyle to Castellane.

According to the policeman Castellane replied: "You American dog, I won't come out. I'm the son of a French nobleman and you have no right to touch me."

Boyle says that, as he reached for him, Castellane threw himself at

JUDGE FINED, HAS RESIGNED

Associate Justice John T. Maloney of Chicopee has resigned his place on the bench, pleading guilty to the charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. Judge Maloney sent his resignation to Governor Cox who immediately accepted it. The judge drove his car into a telephone pole when he was arrested. After his resignation was accepted he paid a fine of $100 and costs.

HEAVY DAMAGE BY FLOODS; NEW ENGLAND MILLS ARE CRIPPLED

MANY HOMES IN MERRIMACK VALLEY ARE MENACED BY RAPID RISING OF RIVER

exacted in Massachusetts and adjoining States.

While tributaries of the Connecticut River are falling in a number of places, the river itself is continuing to rise and flood warnings have been issued for all points south of Holyoke.

TROLLEY CAR MAROONED

At Springfield, where the flood danger appeared greatest, the Westfield has dropped and trolley service has been resumed between Springfield and Westfield. A trolley on this line was marooned for more than twenty-four hours by the flood.

Fred Gaudette, 30, was swept to death in the flooded Westfield River while trying to ford the stream on his way to the Westfield State Sanitarium. His body was later recovered.

The body was found underneath a tree, the branches of which Gaudette had caught when carried down the river.

At Westfield conditions became so bad it was necessary to use boats to rescue marooned women and children. At Fitchburg and Ansonia, Ct., as well as at Westfield, industrial plants and the cellars of hundreds of dwellings were flooded.

Telephone and telegraph service has been greatly impaired in the valley of the Naugatuck River, Connecticut, in the territory between Winsted and Ansonia alone the property is estimated at half a million dollars.

At Holyoke there has been a three-foot rise in Connecticut River dam, while at Northampton the river rose eight feet in twenty-four hours. At Leeds, just north of Northampton, scores of families are moving their household effects to the upper floors of their homes in anticipation of still higher water.

The flood districts extend from Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont to Connecticut.

RESCUES IN BOATS.

For the first time in many years boats were brought into service in several New England communities to rescue families marooned by rising waters.

The cries of Mrs. Frances Ouillette, imprisoned with her five young children in their home on Groux Island, in the Piscataquog River at Manchester, N. H., brought men in a rowboat to her assistance.

Mother and children were rowed to safety, the woman exacting a promise from her rescuers that they would return early today and remove the livestock in the Ouillette barn.

Mrs. Michael Leidnbreau, neighbor of the Ouillette's, took refuge on the second floor of her cottage and declined to be taken off the island.

AUTOIST GETS DUCKING.

Belfast, Me., experienced little rain, but reported that for 24 hours a high sea had prevailed on Belfast Bay, unusually high tides causing great damage to shore property.

Charles Menounian, of No. 119 Chandler street, Worcester, was swept into the water of a swollen brook when the bridge gave way under the weight of his automobile. Menounian jumped from the car and succeeded in making shore but his car remains in the Ocean Street brook.

VERMONT MENACED.

Town officials of Brattleboro, Vt., say the peak of the flood will not be reached for several hours. Similar views are expressed by residents of cities and towns on the Merrimac.

Maine cities reported that most damage had been done by easterly gales. In Portland the wind reached a velocity of 55 miles an hour. In that city more than 800 telephones were disabled.

In Biddeford a live wire was blown down, causing a blaze which destroyed a cottage. Western Maine had the rainstorm for 24 hours without intermission.

The largest losses looked for will be caused by forced unemployment.

Navigation was made hazardous, and the angry surf churned into the violence of a Winter sea, by a forty-eight-mile an hour wind which was blowing off Nantucket Island. Three low-pressure storm centers were reported, the nearest being that off Block Island.

HIGHWAYS WASHED OUT.

The downpour affected railroad and trolley lines, telephone cables, cellars, walls, ceilings, the boilers in

The Salmon Falls River rose so rapidly at East Rochester, N. H., that it was deemed prudent to cut the belts of the Cocheco Woolen Mills. Work in the plant was necessarily suspended. The Cocheco River is still rising.

At Fitchburg, the Nashua River has reached its highest point since the big washout of 23 years ago. The water crippled four boilers of the Fitchburg Paper Company and Mill No. 3 was shut down.

BOILER ROOM FLOODED.

Water poured into the boiler room of the Parkhill Mills at Fitchburg and automatic pumps were used to get the water out of the boilers. The yard of the Grant Yarn Works was hidden by a young lake. Crocker Field, Fitchburg's athletic centre, was a mass of water, the river flowing over a big concrete wall.

In South Fitchburg, a small footbridge was swept away. Street railway lines were affected. Tables, chairs and washboards were seen floating down the Nashua.

One Dead, Heavy Damage in State of New York

Albany, N. Y., April 8.—Spring flood conditions are general throughout Eastern and Southern New York State. One life was lost, considerable property damage was caused and rail and highway traffic was curtailed by the rising waters.

The Mohawk River is 15 feet above normal at Schenectady. The Hudson has risen to 15 feet, and the condition indicates no signs of abating. Railroad tracks and river front piers are under water.

Two Missing in Big Flood in Scranton, Pa.

Scranton, Pa., April 8.—With damage estimated at more than a million dollars already done, officials of the Glen Alden Coal Company were working to change the course of the Lackawanna River, which broke into the Dodge mine and flooded five other big collieries, throwing 6,000 men out of work.

Two men are missing in the mine flood, considered by mining men one of the most serious in the history of the anthracite coal region.

Foot of Snow Falls in Northern New York

Malone, N. Y., April 8.—More than a foot of snow has fallen in this section of northern New York during the past twenty-four hours. Roads are almost impassable, most trains have been seriously delayed and there appeared to be little hope of relief today.

GREENE CASE

mended the case for prosecution.

"And there never has been a prosecution?" asked Senator Wheeler.

"Not by the Federal government, said Stock, adding that there had been a State prosecution.

BOUGHT IMMUNITY.

An amazing story of liquor law violators purchasing criminal immunity from the Department of Justice through the payment of civil "fines" had previously been related by Price F. Armstrong of Chicago, a prohibition agent.

The fines, Armstrong said, were paid direct to the department in Washington by officials of breweries caught in dry law violations.

Armstrong cited the Western Brewery Company at Belleville, Ill., where eighteen barrels of illegal beer were seized.

"We recommended criminal prosecution and I saw the United States district attorney, W. O. Potter, at East St. Louis," said Armstrong. "He told me, 'I don't need more evidence. I have plenty now, but I just got orders from the Department of Justice to nolle prosse the case and I will do so in a few days.' The case was nolle prossed.

BREWERY REFUNDED.

"I was told later by the secretary of the brewing company that they had paid a $5,000 fine to the department as a compromise to have all criminal charges dropped. It was a civil liability settlement."

Armstrong also told of seizing 700 barrels of beer at the Garden City brewery in Chicago in the spring of 1923. An injunction obtained against the brewery, he said, was subsequently lifted "so the brewery could resume brewing."

The witness told of dry law violations in Chicago. He charged that the Republican politicians there compelled the prohibition unit to submit to their approval a list of all places to be raided. To defy the political ring, Armstrong said, was to invite dismissal from the enforcement service.

"Did you do that?"

"Yes, they were powerful enough to have me transferred and I was threatened with removal from the service," said Armstrong.

"I had to submit the names of places I intended to raid to Charles Kemp, the group chief, for approval. This was done so I wouldn't raid any friend of the political gang."

SHOT IN JOLIET.

Armstrong said "enough permits were issued at Chicago for sacramental wine to flood the State of Illinois."

"Was a shot taken at you in Joliet?"

"Yes; a prohibition agent shot me during a raid," he answered.

"Did he try to kill you?"

"I'll always think so, but he claimed he lost his head."

Stock, on the stand, read "notes" he had made on his "survey" of the Old Hickory powder case in Tennessee. Assistant Attorney-General John W. H. Crim, who assigned him to this case, he said, resigned after saying he had urged the Attorney-General to take action in the case.

In a subsequent conference, Stock declared, he found his "confidential memo to Crim on the case" had been turned over, to the "Dupont attorneys." The memo contained "leads" for prosecution.

UP TO $20,000,000

At a conference of department officials in January, 1924, Stock said, the estimate of the recoverable money on deposit was from $5,000,000 to $20,000,000.

GIRL IS HELD

Mrs. Duffy and her brothers formerly lived in Plainville.

Providence police say McCormick has confessed to stealing machines in Maine cities, in New Hampshire and in Lynn and Salem.

He accompanied the officers to the garage of Carl Brendt, in Pawtucket, where six alleged stolen cars were found. Brendt was arraigned today before Judge Hahn in Providence Superior court on four indictments charging receiving stolen cars. He pleaded not guilty and was released on bail.

Miss Butler and McCormick, so Lynn police say, stole cars in Lynn belonging to Mrs. Isabella McLean; Thomas Roland of Nahant, Jose L. Burpee and three others.

LYNN MAYOR A VICTIM.

They are likewise charged with the theft of a machine owned by Mayor Harlan A. McPheters of Lynn. The Mayor's car has been located in Providence.

It is charged by police that Mrs. Duffy's "gang" ran the stolen cars over the line to Rhode Island points where they were sold to garage owners known to be "fences."

As a result of the arrest in New York of Mrs. Butler, Lynn police will not press charges of automobile thievery against Mrs. Gladys Cunningham Butler, young Saugus woman recently arrested in Portsmouth, N. H., after a running auto chase by Salem police.

Mrs. Gladys Butler is held with Edgar Booth of Everett, her sweetheart, in Salem jail on a complaint charging a statutory offence.

Booth has admitted, the police say, to being a tool of a Greater Boston automobile thief gang.

brigands that hunted strangers with big bear hounds.

THE GERMAN plan is out. You will read a sketch of it in the newspaper. The Allies will put a blanket mortgage of two thousand five hundred millions of gold dollars on German industries, real estate and so on —property of private individuals and corporations.

Germany will be expected to reform her budget system, and pay six hundred million dollars a year, after a certain resting period.

IT SOUNDS encouraging—for those that want money from Germany. But it all depends on what happens in Europe. Some unpleasant movement on the part of the Russian Bear and the whole scheme would be overturned, with Western Europe hiring Germany to keep the Russians in order.

"OLD EARTH" of ours is still young and troublesome and hasn't settled down. In Spain the houses of a village are mysteriously sinking into the ground. And England is worried by severe earthquake shocks in the coal mining districts. Compared with the size of the earth these little settlings are nothing, but compared with the size of man they are gigantic.

THOSE THAT rule the oil market say there won't be any big advance in gasoline prices this Spring because "muddy roads will hold down the price." Muddy roads diminish automobiling. Less automobiling means smaller demands for gas, and smaller demand means that the rulers don't put up the price. In other words, "what will the traffic bear," not what does the gasoline cost, is the important question.

Driscoll was found in a vacant lot, fatally injured.

PRIZE BEAUTY APPEALS SENTENCE

Mrs. Ida Eileen Geller, beauty prize winner, of No. 49 Dix street, Revere, was sentenced to one month in the House of Correction by Judge Sullivan in Municipal Court today on a charge of larceny. She appealed. Mrs. Geller, who is a divorcee and mother of a six-year-old child, was charged with larceny of underclothing from a Boston department store and two dresses from two Lynn stores, of a total value of $75. The Lynn charges will be heard in Lynn District Court on April 11. She was admitted to bail today awaiting Superior Court trial of the Boston charges. She declared she is innocent of wrongdoing, although police allege they found stolen goods in her possession.

GIRL TEACHER IS TOLD LIFE IS IN PERIL

WARNED THAT STREET CAR WAS TO BE WRECKED

"Beware on Tuesday, April 8, as the car on which you ride to school from your home will be wrecked at Broadway and Marshall street."

This note typewritten on yellow paper and received by mail by Miss Florence R. Gallagher, teacher at the Northeastern Junior High School, Marshall street, Somerville, is in the hands of the Somerville police.

The name of a former pupil was signed to the note.

Today is the day. Don't be alarmed, however. Miss Gallagher is far too wise to walk into so crude a trap.

The chances are she did not take her usual car this morning. She probably took an earlier one, or a later one, or went to school by automobile, or, it may be, walked.

However, though she is too wise to fall into a trap, she is also too brave to fear it. It isn't the fear of bodily harm that caused her to enlist the aid of the police. It is the fact that she doesn't care to be annoyed in future by such threats.

For this is not the first time she has been disturbed by receipt of notes and telephone calls of this nature.

For several months, according to her father, Michael J. Gallagher of No. 16 Otis street, Medford, a government clerk, threatening notes have been flooding the house and the school, and the teacher has been besieged by mysterious telephone calls.

The telephone calls, always in a girl's voice, ceased when a member of Miss Gallagher's household threatened to appeal to the police.

All of the notes except the last one were either left under the door or delivered to the teacher by mysterious strangers. The threats in most of the notes were mild and Miss Gallagher was inclined to regard them as jokes, but the arrival of the last one by mail caused her to determine to put a stop to them.

Police are on the trail of a former pupil.

DORCHESTER MAN SHOT DOWN BY BANDIT

Gunman, Angered by Not Finding Money, Fires; Victim Dying

Angered because a search of the pockets of William Meehan, fifty-five years old, of Clarkson street, Dorchester, failed to reveal any money, a youthful bandit deliberately shot Meehan in the abdomen today.

Meehan was held up by two bandits at Bellevue street and Columbia road while on his way home.

One of the gunmen pressed a revolver against Meehan's side while the other searched his pockets.

"I have no money," Meehan told the pair, but they made a thorough search before they were convinced he was telling the truth.

Both bandits were angry when found nothing.

"Here! Take that," said one of the gunmen as he pulled the trigger of his revolver. Meehan fell and the bandits fled.

At City Hospital Meehan was able to give only a meager description of the men outside of the fact that they wore light coats and were between twenty and twenty-five years of age.

Meehan's name is on the danger list.

'NOBLE' JAILED

him, forcing him back to the sidewalk. He crashed through a glass show case in front of a haberdashery shop at No. 30 Hanover street.

Patrolman Boyle was knocked unconscious.

TAXI DRIVERS HELP.

Two taxi drivers ran up at this point and held the five men until Patrolman Gallant arrived.

Patrolman Boyle later was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital where three stitches were taken to close a wound at the back of his right ear.

On the way to the station Castellane again asserted his rights as a nobleman, according to Patrolman Gallant, who says that he, too, was born.

Boyle and Gallant appeared in person before Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley and following this appearance filed complaints against de Castellane, charging assault and battery.

An interesting feature of the case is that Captain James McDevitt of the Joy Street station denied to reporters any knowledge of the fracas as reported by Boyle and Gallant to the superintendent over their chief's head.

CASE IS CONTINUED.

Former assistant District Attorney Henry P. Fielding appeared as counsel for Castellane.

After considerable delay the case came before Judge Palmenter. Castellane waived the reading of both charges of drunkenness and assault and proceedings were continued for two weeks, Castellane being released on his personal recognizance.

Lynch was released on the drunkenness charge without arraignment. Castellane's three other companions in the automobile were not arrested.

Castellane lives at Waverly Hall, Cambridge, and his home is in Paris.

PROMINENT AT HARVARD.

Young de Castellane is a member of the class of 1925 at Harvard and is vice-president of the Cercle Francais de l'Universite Harvard, one of whose purposes is "to help French students before and after their arrival at the University." He also is a member of the "Fly Club" of Harvard, the Institute of 1770 and D. K. E., the Iroquois Club and the Stylus Club.

DANVERS CITIZENS DEMAND RUM ACTION

Danvers, April 8.—Protesting against liquor conditions, which they characterize as deplorable, sixty citizens representing the local federation of clubs have presented a petition to the Selectmen asking for action. The petition, bearing 385 names, was presented by H. A. Morrison. At the hearing before the Board of Selectmen, accusations were made that booze was sold over the soda fountain counters by several druggists. The druggists have been warned to cease the sales or get out of town.

POISON GAS SAVES THOUSANDS IN BANK

New Douglas, Ills., April 8 (I.N.S.).—Poison gas released by a secret device in the vault of the Douglas State Bank here when six bandits blew off the outer vault door with nitroglycerine early today, routed the bandits and saved thousands of dollars of the bank's money.

SEEK INVESTIGATION OF R. R. LAND GRANTS

Washington, April 8.—A resolution to authorize investigation by a joint Congressional committee of all land grants to the Northern Pacific Railway Company was approved today by the House public lands committee.

MOTHER OF BOY WAIF FOUND GUILTY

Convicted of Statutory Offence; the Abandonment and Larceny Charges Continued

Mrs. Marian McCarl, mother of Lawrence McCarl, the three-year-old youngster, better known as Boston's wandering baby, was arrested and found guilty today on a statutory offense.

Charges of abandonment of a little child and larceny were continued until Friday. In Municipal Court Mrs. McCarl was arraigned with Walter R. Langwell, who was also found guilty.

The couple were charged with having lived as man and wife at a Columbus avenue lodging house. The landlady, Mrs. Margie George, testified that they registered as Mr. and Mrs. H. Gordon of New York and stayed ten days.

PLEADED NOT GUILTY.

Mrs. McCarl pleaded not guilty to the abandonment and larceny charges and said that at the lodging house she and Langwell occupied separate rooms.

The arrest of the mother of the little boy, who has twice wandered into the hands of the police, followed a search by Special Officers DiSessa and O'Neill of Station 3 that lasted throughout the night.

Early in the evening Captain Driscoll and the two special officers started out on a still hunt for the mother of young Lawrence. They went to all the addresses that had been given the police by the young woman. Not a trace of her could they find. Then someone telephoned that she and a young man named Walter R. Langwell could be found at a restaurant on Clarendon street. The police hurried there and found Langwell, but Mrs. McCarl was absent.

Lawrence McCarl.

LANGWELL ARRESTED.

Langwell was arrested charged with a statutory offence. The search was continued for Mrs. McCarl and she was finally located on Columbus avenue in the early morning hours and was taken to the East Dedham street police station, where the police lodged a statutory offence against her in connection with Langwell's case.

While the police of the East Dedham street station were combing the South End for Mrs. McCarl she arrived at the Chardon street home, where her small son was lodged for a second time within a few days. He had been found wandering on the streets of Roxbury after Mrs. McCarl had announced that she was taking him to Connecticut to join his father.

REFUSED BOY.

When the woman arrived at the Chardon Street Home and demanded her boy she was told she could not have him. A police officer from Roxbury came on the hot foot and interviewed Mrs. McCarl at some length. She was finally told that the matter would be taken up in court and not knowing that the East Dedham street police were looking for her, the officers allowed her to go.

Mrs. Marion McCarl. Mrs. Leroy Tarbarton.

INCOME TAX OF 1923 CUT BY SENATE BILL

Retroactive 25 Per Cent. Reduction Reported Favorably by Committee

Washington, April 8.—The new revenue bill was ordered favorably reported to the Senate today by the Finance Committee.

It provides, as reported, for a retroactive reduction of 25 per cent on 1923 income taxes which are payable this year; permanent revision of the income tax rates in accordance with the plan of Secretary Mellon; a special reduction of 25 per cent. in taxes on earned income and repeal of many miscellaneous and excise taxes.

The scope of tax reduction was narrowed, however, from that provided by the House bill, warning of a Treasury deficit under its terms leaving forced restoration of some of the miscellaneous taxes stricken out during House consideration of the measure.

Betty Alden Tells Wedding Plans of Miss Helen Rockwell of Milton

By BETTY ALDEN

CAUTIES have gone out for the wedding of Miss Helen Rockwell and Philip Stanley Parker, Jr., to be solemnized at 4 o'clock on Tuesday, April 22, in St. Michael's Church, Milton.

Miss Rockwell, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Randall Rockwell of Milton, will have as maid of honor Miss Grace H. Parker, sister of the prospective bridegroom.

The bridesmaids will be the Misses Dorothy Kling, Olivia Churchill, Frances Johnson and Therese de Normandie, all of Milton; Miss Eleanor Hale of Winchester, and Miss Sara Klein of Boston.

Mr. Parker, a Harvard '21 man and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Parker of Brookline, will be attended as best man by Gilbert R. Payson, also of Brookline, where the bridal couple will establish their new home in the Fall.

APROPOS of new homes, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tufts, Jr., (Faith Simpkins) have purchased the Daniels property in Beverly Farms. They plan to become members of the North Shore's year-round colony.

Mrs. W. Tufts, Jr. (Photo by Wide) week.

Previously, Mr. and Mrs. Tufts and their young family have spent much of their time at "Brookfield," the Farms estate of her mother, Mrs. Nathaniel Simpkins.

The former Faith Simpkins is still being showered with all manner of praise for her collaboration with Miss Sizzette Sturgis in the writing of "Wake Up," presented by the Vincent Club last

OIL COMMITTEE WIDENS HUNT FOR THOMPSON

Senator Walsh Orders Marshals All Over Country to Seek Missing Official

Washington, April 8 (I.N.S.)—Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana today ordered United States marshals all over the country to join in the search for William Boyce Thompson, former chairman of the finance committee of the Republican National Committee.

Thompson was ordered before the committee March 27, but has failed to answer to subpoenas which have been issued for him. Process servers for the Senate oil committee reported to Walsh today they had been unable to find any trace of Thompson.

Walsh declared he regarded Thompson as one of the most important witnesses in his effort to prove a conspiracy among oil interests in the 1920 Republican convention.

He particularly desired to interrogate Thompson about an alleged gift of 75,000 shares of stock by Harry F. Sinclair to wipe out the debt incurred in the last presidential campaign.

Thompson is said to be "traveling through the West" and could not be reached by telephone or telegraph. Unless he is located shortly the committee may ask the secret service agencies of the government to join in the search.

CALL ON COOLIDGE TO FREE DE VALERA

Resolutions urging President Coolidge to intercede for the release from prison of Eamon de Valera and other Irish men and women were sent to Washington today by the De Valera Associates of Massachusetts.

The resolutions were adopted at a meeting of the organization in the American House.

"De Valera, Austin Stack and many other Irish men and women," says the resolutions, "are incarcerated in Irish goals, charged with no crime, refused opportunity to appear before the civil courts or even a military tribunal, that they may answer to charges."

STUDENTS WHO SMOKE CANNOT BE TEACHERS

Jacksonville, Ala., April 8.—The Jacksonville State Normal School hereafter will not issue certificates to students who smoke cigarettes, President Daugette announced today. The cigarette is not banned from the campus, but men and women students who smoke cigarettes will not be permitted to do practice teaching, which is a requirement to secure a certificate to teach in the Alabama schools. Most of the students attending the institution are preparing to become teachers.

BRENT CIVIC GUILD TO ELECT OFFICERS

The regular monthly meeting of the Margaret Brent Civic Guild will be held Thursday at Hotel Bellominster. An interesting evening is planned. The speaker will be John F. Fitzgerald. There will be readings by Miss Reynolds and a musical program. There will be an election of officers.

Miss Teresa Dacey heads the list of new officers as president. It is with great regret that the members consented to part with their earnest president, Mrs. F. C. Scanlan.

WANTS BAN ON BIRTH CONTROL DATA LIFTED

Rep. Vaile Urges Change in Old Law; Sees No Menace to Morals of Country

Washington, April 8—The question of whether the circulation of birth control knowledge should be permitted was thrashed over today by a Senate committee.

Representative Vaile, Republican, Colorado, urged a favorable report on the Cummins-Vaile bill dealing with the subject.

He contended that public morality is not more conspicuous in the United States now than fifty years ago, when the provisions of the law he seeks to have stricken from the statute books, were inserted. The measure, he said, "does not propose to teach birth control," and "does not propose any new legislation."

"We propose to make lawful what was lawful prior to 1873 and what is legal in every other country in the world," he added.

WAR SENTENCES ARE COMMUTED

BRISBANE'S "TODAY" NOW IN NEWS REEL

New York, April 8.—Arthur Brisbane's editorial "Today" has been converted into a news reel by two inventive young men, Robert Thornby and Arthur Shaughnessy, who saw motion picture possibilities to Mr. Brisbane's widely read column. With a daily circulation of 110 newspapers and a reading public that is up in the millions, "Today" appealed to them as having both educational and entertainment value. Certain Brisbane editorials that have news as well as picture value were chosen by the producers for their trial film. Undoubtedly "Today" in motion picture form can be made into a film that will have countrywide interest.

COOLIDGE HAS 83,000 LEAD IN MICHIGAN

Former Johnson Strongholds Are Carried by President in Party Primaries

Detroit, Mich., April 8 (A.P.)—Hiram Johnson, who carried Michigan in the 1920 presidential primary by a plurality of more than 44,000, today trailed Calvin Coolidge by approximately 83,000 votes as returns from 1,873 of Michigan's 2,890 precincts were tabulated in Monday's primary.

Approximately one-third of the State's registered voters cast ballots, the returns indicated.

Henry Ford had a lead of 2,719 over United States Senator Woodbridge N. Ferris in the contest for preferment on the Democratic ticket. The returns were from 1,741 precincts and included all but a few scattered precincts from Wayne County, Detroit.

The latest returns gave: Coolidge (R) 150,749; Johnson (R) 68,685; Simpson (R) 5,606; Ford (D) 26,073; Ferris (D) 23,492.

The more populous centres, Detroit, Grand Rapids and Flint, failed to prove the Johnson strongholds claimed for them, and all returned substantial pluralities for Coolidge.

Close Contest Expected in Illinois Today

Chicago, April 8.—Interest of national politics centres today on the Illinois primary in which President Coolidge and Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California make their bid for sixty-one delegates to the Republican National Convention.

TO ARREST DUKE OF MANCHESTER FOR FRAUD

Canadian Says He Got $5,000 to Pay Hotel Bill Under False Pretences

Montreal, April 8 (I.N.S.).—A warrant has been sworn out before Judge Cuseon for the arrest of the Duke of Manchester and his son Lord Mandeville, who are said to be in England. A constable will be sent to London to arrest them.

The warrant was granted on the application of Isidore Poplaski, representing J. T. Telbuth, shoe manufacturer of Three Rivers, Quebec. It charges the Duke of Manchester and Lord Mandeville with obtaining $5,000 by false representations from Mr. Telbuth, who said he had been induced to sign a demand note for $5,000 in favor of the Royal Hotel, to which the Duke owed that sum.

FRENCH MOVE TO SAVE RUSSIAN PROFESSORS

Paris, April 8 (I.N.S.).—Premier Poincare, on behalf of government universities and French scientists, cabled today to George Tchitcherin, commissary for foreign affairs in the Russian government, protestations against the trials of alleged anti-Bolshevist plotters at Kiev and asking that the death penalty not be imposed upon the university professors among the defendants.

ESCAPE DEATH AS AUTO RAMS FENCE

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sylvester of No. 25 Bay State road, Boston, narrowly escaped death today when their automobile swerved on Washington Bridge, Somerville, and bounded against the iron fence over the Mystic River. The car was badly damaged.

Overshadowing the presidential contest in State interest, however, is the race between Governor Len Small and Thurlow G. Essington, State Senator, for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, which has developed possibly the bitterest factional struggle in the State's history.

Primaries Are Held by Nebraska Voters

Omaha, Neb., April 8.—President Calvin Coolidge and Senator W. Johnson of California, in a State-wide primary today are seeking Nebraska's indorsement for the Republican presidential nomination and the nineteen delegates to the National Convention. The name of no Democratic candidate for presidential preference appears on the ballot, but blank spaces have been left for voters to write in names.

REWARD OF $200 FOR CHICOPEE GIRL'S BODY

Chicopee, April 8.—A reward of $200 has been offered for the recovery of the body of Sophie Chapek, fourteen-year-old girl believed to have been slain by Stanley Zalesky, six days ago.

Zalesky, who is seventeen, admits he murdered the girl by beating her to death with a club. The body was wrapped in a piece of carpet and thrown into the Connecticut River, he said.

Although 500 sticks of dynamite have been exploded in the river and the stream dragged, no trace of the body has been found.

The reward has been offered by Chief of Police Frank O'Callahan of Chicopee.

Thousands Rush to Bob Hair Before Easter Sunday

New York, April 8.—Barbers' shears are mowing through the tresses of demure Brooklyn misses at the rate of 2,000 a day, according to reliable report. In one department store alone eighteen barbers are reported working morning and night to accommodate the rush to bob before Easter. Easter bonnets are the explanation of the stampede, the experts explaining that the hats this year are so constructed as to sit comfortably only on a head with a minimum of hair.

Madames of forty and fifty make up a considerable percentage of those who work by the sign of the striped pole.

EXCEPTIONS TO 'GUN' HEARING IN SACCO CASE

Counsel for Paymaster's Slayers Allege Refusal of Publicity by Judge

Seven exceptions to rulings of Judge Webster Thayer in connection with the substitution of gun barrels in the Sacco-Vanzetti case were filed today by counsel for the two prisoners in the Norfolk Superior Court clerk's office.

April 15 will mark the fourth anniversary of the paymaster murder in which Sacco and Vanzetti stand convicted, but not yet sentenced.

The exceptions today are taken in regard to alleged failure of Judge Thayer to allow defendants' counsel to cross-examine witnesses during the "gun barrel hearing", to hold a public rather than a "chamber" hearing, to allow a chemical examination of deposits on the end of the plata barrel, and a number of other points.

Frederick Moore, counsel for Sacco, and Judge Thomas P. McAnarney, counsel for Vanzetti, filed the exceptions.

MILLER RESIGNS AS POLICEMAN IN NEWTON

Action Result of Speeding Case Against Sergeant Weeks of Wellesley

Acting on Miller's long a series of complaints in Newton on account of his activities as a special policeman, has resigned his job. Chief Bernard M. Burke of the Newton force announced today that Miller was no longer connected with the department, although he refused to state whether or not Miller's resignation had been requested.

Miller's resignation came as an aftermath to some trouble with Sergeant Harry Weeks of Wellesley, connected with the intelligence department of the First Army Corps Area.

On March 17 Weeks was driving with his mother, an invalid, on Beacon street, Waban. Miller arrested him and later Weeks was fined $10 in Newton District Court for speeding. He appealed the case and addressed a letter of complaint to the Newton Board of Aldermen.

Weeks claimed the officer drove his car into the Weeks machine and that Mrs. Weeks became violently ill. Miller refusing to summon a doctor.

The Newton aldermen turned the matter over to the committee on claims and rules for investigation, but knowing Miller had resigned.

The Boy who CAME TO BOSTON
Comes Back Again

IT was 40 years ago that a boy of fifteen trudged into Boston with hope and expectations plus barrels of ambition—and he sold some candy—so much candy, in fact, that Boston instantly made an impression on the youthful salesman that has never been effaced.

The boy's success as a salesman and his love of Boston had much to do with moulding the future career of George W. Loft.

Young Loft had determined that some day he would come back to Boston and show his appreciation in a big way by doing something that would make the people take notice. He went back to his father's candy factory in New York, where he had already served a two years' apprenticeship, and himself helped make, pack and ship the candy for which he had received orders in Boston. From a youthful candy salesman, George W. Loft developed into one of the world's leading candy makers—in fact the world's foremost manufacturing retailer of candies—with six great factories, 33 prominent retail stores, in all the big eastern cities—2500 employees, with an annual output of 25 million pounds of candy.

So George W. Loft comes back to Boston

Loft will open a store in Boston
on Thurs., April 10th

In this store, as in other Loft establishments in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and elsewhere, the more than one thousand varieties of sweetmeats will be sold—candies that are made of purest ingredients, in the most sanitary factories in the world—candies that are unexcelled anywhere at any price.

The popularity of the Loft store is assured—the superiority of its candies will make it so—and Boston will be glad George W. Loft came back to Boston.

AUTOMOBILE BOWLERS TO SHOW SPEED IN TITLE PIN TOURNEY

42 TEAMS TO BATTLE ON ALLEYS

Singles and doubles will be the order in the world's championship candia pin bowling tournament at the Arena today. The 146 bowlers who figured in the five-man competition at last night's meeting today will have their fling at the other two classes.

Beginning at 1 o'clock the doubles will hold forth and lasting until 5 o'clock when the singles will be rolled. There is considerable interest in the opening competition in these two classes.

All other bowlers in the tournament are anxious to see what sort of competition they will face. The scores in these two divisions are awaited with keen interest all over New England.

Last night's grand opening was the most successful in the history of bowling in the East. The remarkable alleys caught the fancy of the crowd. That new records are to be established during the tournament is fairly well assured.

The grand reunion of the members of the automobile industry tonight promises some rich fun as well as some good scores. Keen competition exists between the various clubs and each five-man team will have a host of supporters on hand to cheer the bowlers.

Forty-six teams will figure in the five-man competition. Beginning at 6 o'clock tonight the automobile men will battle right up to midnight. Automobile Night promises to be one of the big nights of the tournament.

LACK OF MATERIAL HINDERS BRODERICK

Coach Bill Broderick will have his hands full trying to produce a championship possibility in baseball at Salem High this Spring. The team will open its season April 16 with Swampscott High at Salem.

EAGLE NINE TAKES TO ALUMNI FIELD

The Boston College baseball squad will probably be on Alumni Field again this afternoon for their second outdoor practice of the season. The final cut in the squad is expected tomorrow. The six pitchers and the four outfielders will be retained but several infielders and a catcher will be dropped.

LEWIS' BRIDE TO SEE BIG BOUT AT GRAND

Ed Strangler Lewis, his bride and his manager Billy Sandow, are due to arrive in town tomorrow. This is an indication that Lewis doesn't figure Peter Kosloss, the big Russian, a real set up. He knows that Kosloss is going to get him some tough men to meet and he won't take any chances of getting ill on the last minute and having on chance to rest out a train ride.

Strangler Lewis

It may interest a few of the fans to know that Kosloss made Joe Stecher go two hours to get a decision on him. He is a wonderful built fellow and knows the game from start to finish. Lewis won't have any pink tea party when the wrestling show is over up at the Grand on Thursday night.

As the other half of the double star card Ivan Linow, the Russian Lion, promises to spring a surprise on Sidney Stasiak in their finish match.

Linow has insisted on this match all season and is at the present time in the greatest form of his entire career. He demonstrated this fact at Nashville, Tennessee, recently when he gained a fall from Wladek Zbyszko in eleven minutes.

There will be a lot of Poles wearing mourning when that match is over on Thursday night.

The double star card will be ushered in by a one-fall contest between Frank Dutcher and Jack Albright.

NORTHEASTERN HELD UP BY WEATHER

A week of bad weather has put a crimp in Coach Rufus Bond's training schedule for the Northeastern Engineering baseball team. Coach Bond intended to cut down his candidates from seventy to about twenty-five last Wednesday, but his earliest opportunity probably will be the coming Wednesday, which will crowd him for time, as the first game of the season will be played Saturday.

The schedule for the spring is as follows: Tufts at Medford, Saturday; Boston College at Chestnut Hill, April 12; Boston University at home, April 23; Brooklyn Poly at home, April 24; Worcester Tech at Worcester, April 26; Lowell Textile at Lowell, April 26; Rhode Island State at home, May 1; Providence at Providence, May 14; Rhode Island State at Kingston, May 15; Brooklyn Poly at Brooklyn, May 17; and Providence at home, May 21.

ROXBURY RED SOX GETTING IN TRIM

The Roxbury Red Sox Baseball Club, represented last season by one of the fastest semi-pro nines in New England, is now getting in trim and planning on commencing its season early in May.

With such veterans as Joe Coyne, Butch Henry, Art Smith, Scotty Sheehan, Jimmy Vaughn, Lefty Sepke, Eddie McNevins, Billy Howard and Tommy McMahon, and two or three other stars with whom negotiations are now pending, Manager McMahon is highly optimistic over prospects for this season.

In order to obtain funds for the purchase of new uniforms supplies etc., the entire proceeds from the organization's 22nd Grand Ball and Cabaret, to be held in International Hall, Easter Monday night, will be turned over to the nine.

GOLEMBESKIE WILL COACH H. C. FRESHMEN

Archie Golembeskie former star end and guard on the Holy Cross football team and assistant coach of the Varsity eleven during the past season has been signed to coach the freshman team next fall. YEARGIN WILL TWIRL AGAINST SENATORS

By NICK FLATLEY.

Macon, Ga., April 8.—Jimmy Yeargin, the young benedict, will pitch the first half of the struggle with the Senators this afternoon and then catch the train for Greenville, S. C., where he will bid good-bye to the other half of the family and start out to become a big league pitcher. Almost every one who has seen him in action says he has all the signs of greatness.

John McGraw watched the young man perform three innings against the Giants. Who were able to make only three hits and no runs, and declared he acted like the real thing. Jimmy is reconciled to being away from the fireside now. He ran home from St. Petersburg last year because he was homesick, and the only cure for that ailment is a view of the old front porch and the aroma of the pork chops from the kitchen.

It looks as if the veteran, Jesse Barnes, will finish the conflict with the Senators. The widely known series now stands 1 to 0 in favor of Stanley Harris, and the Braves, having recovered their missing batting optics over at Spartanburg, S. C., today, hope to make it Even Steven before the dew begins to settle down in this neighborhood.

Jess Barnes

Manager Bancroft is feeling no ill effects of the bump carried to bed at 11 to 7. The tribe collected eighteen hits, seven of which went for four bases.

Yeargin

Yeargin is looking forward to doing everything proper in the field, as per usual, and also socking the ball with gusto and frequency when he takes his cuts at the plate.

He adds that after he recuperated from his illness in Boston last summer he did not make a single bout the rest of the campaign, but that his batting average shrunk from .338 now he is getting better results at the plate, although he has not acquired the knack of pulling the ball into right field yet. He expects that will come with a little more practice.

Yesterday the Braves walloped Reading Internationals to the tune of 18 to 7. The tribe collected eighteen hits, seven of which went for four bases.

WILLIAMS K. O.'S O'NEIL IN K. C. SHOW

A record breaking crowd watched the Bunker Hill K. of C. amateur tournament held last night at Roughan's Hall, Charlestown. Thirty-three bouts featured the carnival and the bout between Frank Williams, of Charlestown and Frank O'Neil featured the affair.

In the final and deciding bout of the 160 pound class Frank Williams knocked out Bart O'Neil in two rounds and this bout brought the fans out of their seats and the Charlestown gallery gave Williams a great ovation.

Mike Moriorty, of Charlestown, called it a night's work after he had cleaned up everything available in the 112 pound class. He displayed some brilliant headwork besides clever punching ability.

Frank Santo, another Charlestown lad, clinched first place honors in the 126 pound division. Frank Flynn, also of Charlestown, won the 147 pound award. In the heavy weight competition John Wilson of Charlestown had things his own way and defeated all opponents easily.

Harvard-Yale May Race by Moonlight

The Harvard-Yale varsity crew race as matters stand now will be rowed either at 4 o'clock or 7:30 eastern standard time, on June 20 over the classic Thames. These two starting times have been set by Referee William Mehlenbam, who is sounding out the opinion of the Harvard and Yale rowing authorities through Captain Henry of Harvard and Captain Rockefeller of Yale. The tide makes it necessary to row at these hours, and the evening hour for the race is a few minutes after sunset. Harvard will very likely seek to have the 4 o'clock date set.

PESEK WINNER IN FURIOUS BOUT

John Pesek, the Nebraskan Tiger, defeated Allan Eustace in the main bout at Mechanics Building last night after a clever and furious bout which went three falls. Pesek won the first fall in 41 minutes 29 seconds with an arm lock and head scissors.

Allan Eustace

Eustace came back very strong, and after throwing Pesek around the ring for 12 minutes, put a toe hold on Pesek and scored the second fall. The third and decisive fall proved to be the surprise of the evening when, after wrestling only two minutes, Pesek scored a fall with a leg hold.

The bout was one of the fastest seen in Boston this season and the crowd showed their appreciation with round after round of applause.

In the preliminary events Frank Dutcher defeated Bob Johnson in a one-fall match in 17 minutes with a series of headlocks. The other match of the evening between Patsy MacCarthy and Bill Rudy was won by the former in 22 minutes with a giant swing.

Those who saw the fine work of Eustace last night were pleased to hear that he will remain in Boston and appear at Promoter Toohey's next show, a week hence, when he will meet the best available opponent.

EXPECT 100 TO RUN IN B. A. A. MARATHON

Because of the many requests for entry blanks for the American Marathon, Manager Tom Kanaly expects that there will be close to 100 entered for the annual B. A. A. event on Patriot's Day.

The list is growing gradually and yesterday's mail brought in the entries of J. Foxcroft Carleton of East Sandwich, Mass., who finished 19th in 1923; James J. White of South Boston, Bernard Parfumorse, Dorchester Club, and Arthur R. Letter of Allentown Y. M. C. A., of Allentown, Penn.

BRAY'S DEFI IS ACCEPTED BY MURPHY

Frank Murphy of Lowell, better known as "Podge" Murphy, is right on the trail of John Bray, who claims the American long distance swim championship. Bray last week challenged Murphy to a fifteen-mile ocean race for a purse of money to be placed as a side bet or prize.

"Podge" Murphy

The Lowell man states that he is still an amateur swimmer, although he will race John Bray anytime during the month of July, and feels sure that his many supporters will be willing to place money on his chances of defeating Bray. With the Lowell man was a delegation of five who said it was an easy matter to make a purse.

The course that Murphy would choose is from Charlestown Bridge to Revere Beach. He also claims that he has defeated John Bray four out of five starts and says he can again accomplish the same feat.

Murphy holds the record for the ten-mile swim from Lowell to Lawrence.

By JACK CONWAY.

Young Delco, who says he can defeat Pancho Villa as easily as he knocked out Flores, will make his Boston debut tonight when he clashes with Johnny Buff, former world's bantamweight champion, in a ten-round bout at the Armory A. A.'s show at Mechanics Building.

Dencio, former flyweight champion of the Navy, has made a decided hit since he joined the ranks of the professionals. Those who have seen Dencio in the workouts at Kelly & Hayes' Gym have been greatly impressed by his class. He is a rushing, two-handed fighter like Villa and his from every angle.

Frank Dane of this city is managing Dencio. Dane first saw the little Filipino in action in a bout at Washington. He was greatly impressed by the youngster and signed him to a long term contract.

Johnny Buff

Phil Bernstein, manager of Frankie Genaro, announces that he is prepared to match the American flyweight champion with Dencio in the event the latter is successful in disposing of Johnny Buff this p. m.

Buff will give Dencio the acid test. The former champion is one of those aggressive, two-handed fighters who hits from every angle and with tremendous power.

Buff recently returned from the Pacific Coast where he displayed his oldtime form.

RUTTENBURG AND BAXTER IN THE SEMIFINAL

The semi-final of ten rounds will bring together Tommy Ruttenburg, New York flyweight, and Charley Baxter of Hawtucket. There will also be two eights in which bantams will be featured. Matty Cordis of Lynn will oppose Benny Nelson of Lowell, while Young Corless of Peabody will swap blows with Jackie Williams of Chicago.

We are not picking a winner of the Dencio-Buff bout as we have been unable to get an accurate line on the Filipino. He may be another Villa, but we won't know that until after we have seen him in action tonight.

Buff, of course, is not as great a fighter he was as champion, but it will nevertheless take a mighty good boxer to defeat him.

RED CHAPMAN SIGNED FOR BOUT WITH JOE RITCHIE

Charley Chapman has signed Red Chapman, New England junior lightweight champion, for a ten-round bout with Joe Ritchie of Brooklyn at Fall River on Friday night. Chapman is boxing better than at any time during his career and is sure to make things interesting for Ritchie. The latter gave Andy Chaney a tough battle at Mechanics Building several years ago.

Johnny Dundee recently turned down an offer to box Chapman. Apparently the Scotch Won isn't any too confident of his ability to defeat the Dorchester youth.

Cardio has also booked Paul DeSalvo of Quincy to mingle with Martin Flaherty in a ten-round bout at Manchester, N. H. on Friday night.

Battling McCreary, world's colored light-heavyweight champion, has been signed by Alex McLean to meet Jack Taylor of New York in a ten-round bout at Manchester, N. H., on Friday night. This is the best card that has been arranged for Manchester fans in several years.

McCreary, aggressive and a terrific puncher, today stands forth as one of the world's leading fighting men. There is a chance he will be signed to meet Jack Taylor at Providence at an open air show this Summer. McCreary and Taylor are

VEACH SAVES SOX WHEN ROOKIE BOXMEN FAIL

By FRED C. LANE.

Memphis Tenn., April 8.—The final game of the Memphis series with the Red Sox will be played today. Either Bill Piercy or Oscar Fuhr will do the hurling for the Fobbies. Piercy hurled five no-hit innings against Dallas and displayed that snake speed ball and change of pace for which he is famous.

The squad was put through a longer forenoon workout than usual today due to the lack of pepper that was very much in evidence during the opening mix-up with the Chickasaws. The club leaves tonight for Louisville, where a three game series has been arranged with the Colonels.

Curtis Fullerton

The change of climate apparently had an ill effect on the pitching of the Sox. The weather was warm and muggy, the kind that is usually detrimental to ball contests.

Ulrich's performance was a decided disappointment. His work against San Antonio was the first he has shown against Memphis. Manager Fohl was banking heavily on this youngster and Ulrich is willing to admit he is certain they will be used again. Perhaps in the Louisville series, their real traits may be brought out.

Frank Ulrich

Babe Herman will entrain with the squad tomorrow but will continue on to Boston to join Hugh Duffey at the Rookie depot. At the present time Coach Duffey is working out eight youngsters that await final placement in the minor leagues.

It can be taken for granted that Herman, although a capable batter, will not stay with the club this season. Much of his shine was dulled by the brilliant work of Phil Todt who is, if not superior, to Harris at first and very capable with the willow.

Claude Ross has been given permission by Manager Lee Fohl to visit his home in Mayfield, Ky., for a day. He will join the team at Louisville.

SAMBORSKI TO LEAD HARVARD'S FIVE

Adolph W. Samborski of Westfield has been elected to captain Harvard's basketball team next year. He plays right guard. He was also a member of last Fall's varsity football squad, while he is a candidate for the Crimson nine.

THE CONGRESSIONAL SLOGAN

"It Pays to Exercise."

The constituents of our congressmen will doubtless be surprised to know that in the basement of the House Office Building at Washington there is a perfectly appointed gymnasium. And here our athletic lawmakers keep themselves fit.

An unprecedented investigation, made a few years ago, showed that our federal congressmen were more subject to sickness and death than any other group of men engaged in sedentary occupation. Shortly after the World War broke out, Walter Camp came to Washington to help out by building up the physiques of men concerning and managing champions. Pre-breakfast classes of from two score to a hundred of our dignified and corpulent officials twisted and grunted daily on the lawns of some of the cabinet members. The effects were soon noticeable in glowing cheeks, alert steps, and no more nervous, sleepless nights.

After the cessation of hostilities the congressmen, who had so greatly benefited from their regular exercise, saw the necessity of a plan for the continuance of it. Representative D. Britten, former amateur boxing champion, and Congressman Daniel Reed, one of the best all around athletes Cornell has ever produced, fathered the congressional gymnasium. They signed up 125 other federal law-makers, and by private subscription raised enough funds to buy equipment and hire instructors.

Uncle Sam donated a large store room, readily accessible to lockers and showers, and here, daily, the thud of the punching bag, the swish of the jumped rope, the creak of the weight and rowing machines, may be heard. Never be surprised if you are a constituent of one of these gym enthusiasts, and call at his office late one afternoon to hear that he is taking his exercise.

There are enough of our federal representatives interested in this Weltered habit in one week's time to pay for the upkeep of the gymnasium for that annual term of years and the salary of the instructor at Worpiesdon a few months hence—rather a unique performance.

HOLES IN ONE.

Phenomenon Seems to Favor Duds and Champions Alike.

There seems to be no doubt among golfers that a hole in one is more or less of a fluke. In fact, statisticians prove that the "god of the hole in one" more generally bestows this supreme favor on the dub.

The sad part about "ones" is that they seldom happen when they are needed badly. In crucial medal rounds when they would throw the tide of battle in the fortunate player's favor, they are conspicuous by their absence. Yet, there are instances of vitally important "ones."

Perhaps the most recent is that of Jock Hutchinson in 1921 at the eighth hole of St. Andrews. It undoubtedly won him that Open Championship. But it did not merely make the difference of a single shot and enable him to tie with Mr. Wethered and so beat him in the play-off, but it did come at the right moment to buck him up when he needed bucking. He started poorly and was having a rotten time of it until he made that "one" at the eighth. With that behind him he brightened and came within a very few inches of repeating the performance at the ninth again, and this hole a drive of 270 yards!

It is curious, this hole in one business. Sandy Herd did his seventeenth the other day while Vardon did his first sixty years ago and has never repeated it. Among amateurs, Mr. Herbert Fowler has done eight. Miss Joyce Wethered holded in one with a mashie at Worpiesdon a few months ago, and Mr. Bernard Darwin, who was playing with her, has never done it at all.

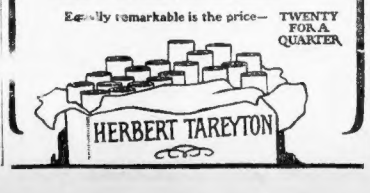
Quality and quantity are seldom seen together. That's why the package of twenty Herbert Tareytons is so remarkable.

Equally remarkable is the price— TWENTY FOR A QUARTER



DELANEY REFUSES TO DODGE NEGRO BOXERS

By RINGSIDE.

Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, greatest middleweight since the days of Stanley Ketchel, is one ringster who is big enough as a fighting man not to draw the color line.

Following his sensational four-round victory over Paul Berlenbach in New York, Delaney was besieged by offers from every boxing promoter in this country. Naturally the fans everywhere wanted to see the man in action who had knocked Berlenbach for a row of goals and who has decisions to his credit over Tommy Loughran and Lou Bogash.

Matchmaker Tom Goodwin of the Suffolk Club then made Delaney a record offer to battle George Robinson, famous Cambridge colored middleweight, in a ten-round bout at Mechanics Building on Thursday night.

"Robinson is the kid Harry Greb is afraid to battle, isn't he?" queried Delaney.

"Yes," came the reply.

"Then let's fight him."

After the match was closed, Delaney resumed as follows:

"I don't intend to pick on setups now that I am at the top of the fistic world. When I was battling my way up the ladder that leads to fame, I determined that if I ever reached the top that I would give all of my challengers an opportunity to defeat me if they could.

MEETING MAN GREB IS AFRAID TO BATTLE

"I am fighting Robinson because I know he is one of the best middleweights and on account of the fact Greb won't enter the ring with him. I intend to prove I can knock out the man who is feared by the middleweight champion.

"I shall never draw the color line as long as I continue boxing. Boxers often find it convenient to dodge a logical opponent by drawing the color line. It shall be my policy to meet all comers regardless of how tough they may be and whether they are white or black.

"If I were in Jack Dempsey's position, I wouldn't be stalling about entering a ring with Harry Wills.

"I realize that Robinson may defeat me, but if he is the better man he is entitled to this opportunity.

"All I ask is an opponent who will stand up and fight with me. I know Robinson will do that. I believe that I can knock out any man in the world who will risk an exchange of blows."

UNCROWNED CHAMPION TO GIVE DELANEY TEST.

There is tremendous interest in the meeting between Delaney and Robinson. Everybody wants to get a glimpse of the man who toppled Berlenbach. The fans know that Robinson is virtually an uncrowned champion and that he will give Delaney the battle of his career.

Delaney and Robinson will be surrounded by a banner preliminary card. Jimmy Armido White of New York will tackle Felix King of Berlin, N. H. in the semi-final of eight rounds. Jimmy Farren of East Boston will box eight sessions with Eddie Williams of the same district, while Johnny Given and Tony Adamo will settle the lightweight championship of Roxbury in another tilt.

LARSEN SURE HE WILL WALLOP HAMBONE

If confidence counts for anything, Wolf Larsen, the bone crushing longshoreman, will step into the ring next Friday night determined to knock out Hambone Kelley of South Boston early in the fight.

Wolf Larsen

Larsen will show no quarter once the bell rings and it is his ambition to send the South Boston puncher to dreamland early in the bout.

Larsen has shown Hub fans that there is no gamer fighter in the ring today. He demonstrated this trait to local fistic followers in his last bout in this city. At that time he met Ad Stone, the sensational K. O. puncher of Philadelphia. Although Larsen was suffering from an attack of appendicitis at the time, he gave Stone all the fighting he desired. Larsen broke Stone's long string of knockouts and two days later he was rushed to the City Hospital with appendicitis.

The longshoreman today is fully recovered and according to reports from the gymnasium, he is punching harder than ever. For this reason, Larsen refuses to listen to any of the propaganda that is emanating from the confines of South Boston, where Hambone is considered the king of his class.

SHEPPARD WINS OVER JOYCE AT LYNN

Lynn, April 8.—Two knockouts and a technical knockout were recorded in three of the four six-round preliminaries staged tonight by the Casino A. C. In the main affair, Johnny Sheppard, Woburn, knocked Buff Ivers, Lynn, through the ropes in the third round. Ivers was helped back into the ring by one of the spectators and was disqualified. Marlo getting the credit of a technical knockout.

Bill Brady, Woburn, sent Jimmy Barry, Chelsea, to dreamland in the third round and Leo Barry, Peabody, needed only one round to dispose of Jimmy Hitmon of Boston.

EASY-PAYMENT PLAN TO HELP GERMANY

Dawes Report Gives Country Chance to Regain Feet While Squaring Her War Debts

Paris, April 8—The time of the official delivery to the allied reparation commission of the reports of both the expert committees—those headed respectively by Brigadier-General Charles G. Dawes and Reginald McKenna—was definitely fixed today for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

General Dawes and his experts seem to have attained the objects at which they aimed, declares Le Matin in presenting a summary of the committee's report.

They achieved this, the newspaper adds, without "passing beyond the limits set for them—that is, without raising the political problem of the occupation of the Ruhr or trying to fix definitely the amount of the German debt, since if the Dawes report gives exact details on the amount of the yearly payments which may be exacted from the Reich it in no way fixes the number of these annuities, at least as regards the part which depends on the budget surplus of the Reich."

GIVES GERMANS CHANCE.

The report provides mainly, according to Le Matin, that Germany shall receive no moratorium; a temporary concession will be made on her railroads; a mortgage placed on her industries and a bureau established to govern the transfer of money from the country in such a manner as to disturb the exchange market as little as possible. Her annual payments would be tapered upward to keep pace with her economic recovery and financial ability.

If financial disorder prevents or delays execution of Germany's financial arrangements, the experts provide automatic installation of strict control by the allies which would be vested with extended powers over the treasury of the Reich.

GRADUAL PAYMENTS.

Without raising the question of the military occupation of the Ruhr, the experts indicate that it will be necessary for Germany to retain a free disposal of the customs and state industries like the forests, coal mines and railroads in the territory occupied by French troops.

Under the proposed reduced annual payments, Germany would supply on the reparation account the first year 1,000,000,000 gold marks raised by means of an international loan of 800,000,000 gold marks plus 200,000,000 from the "Verkehrsteuer," or transportation tax.

The second and third years she would pay 1,200,000,000 gold marks; the fourth year 1,750,000,000; the fifth 2,460,000,000, and so on. From the sixth year the reparation commission would exact supplementary payments which could gradually reach several hundred millions of gold marks.

Funeral Services for Patrolmen Carmody and Cadigan Held in Brighton

Police heads attended the funerals of two Boston policemen today at two Brighton churches.

Police Commissioner Wilson and Captain Mason and Lieutenant Smith of the Brighton station attended funeral services for Patrolman James O. Carmody of No. 16 Bradford street, who was attached to the Brighton station.

A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated in the Church of Our Lady of the Presentation by the Rev. James J. Murphy, pastor. Sergeant Cavanagh of police headquarters commanded a police escort of sixteen men. Burial was in Holywood Cemetery, Brookline.

Funeral services in St. Columbkill's Church for Patrolman Michael J. Cadigan, attached to the Back Bay station, were attended by Superintendent Crowley, Deputy Superintendent Goode, Lieutenant McCloskey and Sergeant Murphy of the Brighton station, and Captain Knedland and Lieutenants McKinnon and Mulligan of the Back Bay station.

The Rev. Charles White celebrated the solemn high mass of requiem for the late policeman, who lived in Bennett street, Brighton. Sergeant Shea led the police escort, in command of Lieutenant Lutz of headquarters. Burial was at St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Why INDICAN Indicates Danger for Most People.

"When Indican Writes, It Uses a Poison Pen"

ASK your doctor about INDICAN. He will tell you it is a substance looked for in examining his patients thoroughly. If he finds it in you—it means that the poisons of constipation are seeping through your blood into every muscle and every joint. This is what does the damage. It robs you of your pep—it poisons your optimism and good spirit—it pales your face and puts blemishes there—it gives you headaches—causes indigestion. No wonder you feel drugged when constipated.

You can get only temporary relief from most laxatives. But Carter's Little Liver Pills, it has been found, not only "physic" the stomach, liver and intestines quickly, but also drive the INDICAN away.

Make This Test: Have an analysis made of your specimen, and if the doctor reports the presence of INDICAN, or if you can "feel" how poisoned you are—immediately start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills as prescribed by him, or according to directions. Now have another test made and see how the INDICAN disappears. See how your complexion brightens and clears, your tongue is sweet and clean, you can eat like a kid again, in most cases.

Important: Carter's Little Liver Pills, used for 67 years by millions of people all over the world, are a purely vegetable preparation and contain no drugs of any nature. They therefore act in a natural way and are non-habit forming. Money refunded if results are not satisfactory.

Business in Simpkin's Office Is Badly Disrupted After Everyone Takes Day Off to See $1,500,000 Masterpiece

By GENE FOWLER.

Business in the office of Mr. Simpkins, where Tillie the Toiler imitates work, was very topsy-turvy yesterday. An atmosphere of romance had supplanted everything else. Mr. Simpkins, Mac and Tilly, that trimmvirate of better (and worse) business, had witnessed that cinema masterpiece, "Under the Red Robe."

The motion picture classic, now showing at the Park Theatre to capacity audiences, pleased them all and yes, it thrilled them, too. But each one had cause to wish that more romance could be instilled in the modern play. For instance, there was Mac.

BEGIN TO FENCE.

Mac is not a bad sort. He has many visions suppressed. Loves and emotions as Russ Westover, famous cartoonist, Tillie's biographer, will tell you. Well, Mac, thinking he was hidden from prying eyes, came to the office in a very dignified manner.

Tillie happened to see him as he stood on his swivel chair, drew a ruler from an imaginery scabbard and began to fence with an imaginary adversary. It was a bloodless but, nevertheless, a very desperate duel, in which Mac was victorious.

Mac had been inspired by the sword play of that capable star, John Charles Thomas, who was the Gil de Berault in the Cosmopolitan Corporation production, "Under the Red Robe." The gorgeous settings by Joseph Urban and the great scenes, all directed by the celebrated Alan Crosland, had a remarkable effect on Tillie. She and her boss agreed it was very marvelous, from the acting of Robert B. Mantell, portraying Cardinal Richelieu, down to the detail where Gil de Berault jumps through the roof of a hut from a precipice.

As for Mr. Simpkins, he was dizzy with figures. He confided in Russ Westover:

"Just imagine it! That picture cost $1,500,000 to produce, yet I only paid a dollar to see it at the Park Theatre. The most that adjoined the palace of King Louis XIII. alone cost $27,000, and yet it was pictured only for a little while, and that darned bird, Gil de Berault, jumped his horse from a drawbridge over that costly moat without even stopping to consider what an expensive thing it was."

JUST A BIT ENVIOUS.

Tillie, remembering the beautiful heroine, with Miss Alma Rubens playing the role of "Renee," was a trifle envious. She said:

"Of course, all those elegant manners and great and thrilling love scenes were to portray the times of long ago, but just the same I think the young men of today should try to make their love scenes just as classy."

For a time Tillie thought of her admirer Dick, and in speaking to Russ Westover continued:

"I would like, if you please, Mr. Westover, to try to stir Dick up a bit and have him see that picture. I am sure he could learn a lot of pretty ways by watching Gil de Berault and the way he talks things to Renee. Try to attend to that, and I will consent to continue as a model for your work for all time to come."

BACK DOOR FORCED; HOLD ROXBURY BOY

Special Officer John Donovan, acting on information received at Dudley street police station, went to the home of Cornelius Connelly, at No. 106 Magnolia street, Roxbury. The back door had been forced. In the dining room was eighteen-year-old Henry Baker of No. 29 Inglesido street, Roxbury. Henry had not taken anything, he said. He had merely piled up a quantity of valuables near the door. Henry is being held as a suspicious person.

ARREST CONVICT AS DRUNKEN DRIVER

Trusty, Serving Two Years at Prison Camp, in Court After Smashup

Peabody, April 8.—The unusual spectacle of a convict, serving a two-year term in a State prison camp, answering to the charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, was presented in Peabody court today.

The convict is James E. Keegan and if a convict can be "arrested" that is what happened to Keegan after he drove an automobile into an electric car on Andover street.

With him at the time was Frank Wheelock, steward at the prison camp at Middleton. Wheelock sustained serious injuries to his head and is in the J. B. Thomas Hospital.

Keegan is a "trusty" at the prison camp. The camp is in charge of Superintendent Morse, at whose directions Keegan had been driving a small car between the prison camp and Salem jail.

When Keegan faced Judge Manning today the court was anxious to learn just how Keegan came to be intoxicated while he is presumably in custody. The court postponed the case until April 14, pending the recovery of the steward.

Six-year-old Glens Falls, N. Y., girl, who is visiting her grandmother in Boston to be near the Eye and Ear Infirmary, where she receives treatment daily while surgeons shake their heads and say she may die at any moment, having already lost her sight with cancer of the brain. Now this poor child is weeping and mourning the mysterious departure of her pet, a big gray cat called "Coodles."

GIRL SOBS FOR BLIND WEST END LOST CAT

The biggest gray cat in all the West End has been missing three days from the home of Mrs. Alice Phillips at No. 174 Stanford street, and a little girl who will never, never, never be able to see anything in this world again is cring for him.

Mrs. Alice Phillips is "Grandma," the little girl who became totally blind ten weeks ago is Genevieve, and the biggest gray cat in the West End is "Coodles."

DOG A COMFORT.

"Bob" has been left behind, to be sure—a handsome and intelligent Boston terrierand "Bob" is some comfort, but Genevieve, like every other parent, mourns for the one that is lost.

Genevieve Phillips is the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips of Glens Falls, N. Y. For two and a half years she has been living with Grandma, in order to be near the famous Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary.

The little girl's trouble is said to be cancer of the brain, and the surgeons never have been able to give Grandma any hope.

MAY DIE ANY MOMENT.

But nobody has told Genevieve the verdict, which is that she may pass away at any moment, and every Thursday she is taken to the "Eye and Ear," for an electrical treatment which takes twenty-five minutes and apparenly gives the little blind girl great relief.

Under what circumstances "Coodles," the cat, left home, no one appears to know.

"The most intelligent cat I ever saw," Grandma Phillips said today, "and one of the handsomest. Many a the time I've seen a covetous eye resting upon 'Coodles.'

"I feel certain the cat has been stolen, but I am equally certain that no one who knew what Coodles meant to our goldenhaired little blind girl would be guilty of such a theft."

KNOCKED DOWN BY TAXI; DIES IN HOSPITAL

Max Coleman, forty-two, married, of No. 12 Salem street, Cambridge, was fatally injured early today when he was struck by a taxicab at Boylston and Charlesgate West.

The taxi was operated by Thomas P. Cleary of No. 142 Avery street, Cambridge, who rushed Coleman to the City Hospital in the cab. He died a short time after arrival.

Cleary was not held by the police.

40 DEAD IN MEXICO IN TRAIN WRECK

Mexico City, April 8 (I.N.S.).—Forty persons were killed and eighty injured when the Mexico City-United States Express crashed into a freight train on a down grade near Bernal, State of Queretaro, according to information received here today.

REIGN OF HORROR RULES IN HONDURAS

Washington, April 8.—A reign of horror rules in Tegucigalpa, capital of Honduras, dead bodies strewn on the outskirts of the city with natives actually dying in squalor, it was reported today in advices to the State Department.

GALLIVAN NEAR FIST FIGHT ON HOUSE FLOOR

Washington, April 8.—Representatives Watkins of Oregon and Gallivan of Boston came close to exchanging blows during debate today on the immigration bill.

Gallivan made a remark in an undertone which Watkins resented.

The Oregon member drew back a clenched fist and lurched toward Gallivan who brought his arms up to guard, but before Watkins could get within striking distance several colleagues intervened.

As Representative Hill, Republican, Maryland, was completing a speech, Watkins walked over to a table on the Democratic side of the chamber behind which were seated Representatives Sabath of Illinois and Dickstein of New York, who are leading the fight against the bill. As he leaned over to talk to Sabath, Gallivan, in an adjoining seat, made the remark which Watkins resented.

Congressman Gallivan made an earnest appeal for fair play in any new immigration act in his speech against passage of the Johnson bill, fixing admission quotas at 2 per cent, during debate on the measure.

2 MERCHANTS HELD FOR THEFT OF WOOL

Abraham Citron and Benjamin Klous, members of the Globe Waist Company, Summer street, were arrested today by Inspectors Dorsey and Augusta, charged with theft of seven bags of wool.

The wool is alleged to have been stolen from a vessel of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, at Commonwealth Pier. It is charged Citron and Klous took the wool away in an auto truck and sold it, making no return to the steamship company.

They were arraigned before Judge Parmenter and held in $3,000 each for a hearing April 29.

LABOR BILLS BEATEN IN N. Y. LEGISLATURE

Albany, N. Y., April 8.—Legislation seeking the creation of a minimum wage board and establishment of a forty-eight-hour working week for women and children in industrial and mercantile establishments of New York State became a dead issue today when the Assembly, in which the majority of members are Republicans, defeated attempts to have the Rules Committee report out the bills.

Flees State Hospital

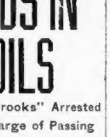
Worcester, April 8.—John F. Sullivan, 38, of Concord Junction, escaped from the Westboro State Hospital, according to a message to the Worcester police. He was described as 5 feet 11 inches tall, weighing 150 pounds, blue eyes, dark complexion, blue suit and shirt

REFORMER LANDS IN TOILS

"Friend of Crooks" Arrested Here on Charge of Passing Bad Check on Local Hotel

Roger N. Wentworth, principal of The Foundation for the Correction and Reformation of Criminals, with home offices in the Commodore Hotel, New York, is getting first-hand knowledge of Boston criminals.

Wentworth is locked up at Police Headquarters on the charge of passing a bad check at the Copley-Plaza Hotel, since he had been living.



Roger N. Wentworth.

When Wentworth is through studying Boston types of criminals he will have an opportunity to pursue his studies further in Worcester and New Haven, where, police say, other hotel proprietors are anxious to meet him.

Wentworth, about thirty-five years of age and immaculately attired, announced when arrested by Inspectors Dorsey and August that he would hold his temper—most certainly.

"It is not for me to become angry over such a matter. It brings me closer to the men I would aid," the reformer told the policemen.

TAKES ARREST CALMLY

At headquarters Wentworth told of his activities.

His secretary, Miss Helen Bohanan Gibson, has charge of the foundation headquarters in New York. Wentworth, himself, maintains a foundation "hotel" in the new Park Square Building, Boston. He admits he formerly lived in Somerville.

At police station he was handcuffed between two pickpockets while awaiting a preliminary arraignment.

"I should be very much perturbed, ordinarily," Mr. Wentworth expostulated, when finally freed from the company of the slant-fingered gentry, "but it is not for me to become angry. I have the names and addresses of those two men and shall most certainly help them. The criminal classes need help."

"How about that bum check?" inquiry of a reporter.

"Oh, as to that. I was going to transfer some funds from my account today, to take care of all outstanding checks and drafts," said Roger.

Further than that the reformer would not discuss the matter.

HE NEEDS SECRETARY.

The principal of the Reform Foundation will, indeed, be compelled to get his information from the criminal classes at first hand, for he was unable to furnish bail and is still locked up.

In the meantime, the police are conducting an investigation into the ramifications of the league of which Mr. Wentworth proudly announces he is the head.

A number of letters were found on Wentworth, having been written by persons more or less well known in Boston.

"I need a secretary in Boston and I advertised for one. These letters are the answers," said the reformer.

"I do so much traveling about here today, somewhere else tomorrow, that I must have a secretary," he concluded.

CARDINAL WILL GREET THE PASSION PLAYERS

The Passion Players from Oberammergau will arrive in Boston tomorrow morning. They are due at the South station at 8.58 a.m.

One of their number, Edmund Schmid, lived in Boston for several years. He will act as aide to the fourteen other players while they are in the city, from April 9 to 19.

On their arrival the players will call on Mayor Curley at City Hall and on Governor Cox at the State House. They will also pay a visit to Cardinal O'Connell at his office on Granby street.

POSTMASTER BAKER TO BE REAPPOINTED

Washington, April 8 (I.N.S.).—It was indicated at the White House today that Postmaster Roland M. Baker of Boston will be reappointed. It was said that the report of the postal inspectors does not sustain the charge that Mr. Baker has conducted his office improperly or inefficiently.

Clever Work! Dog Shut Off From Master in Malden Rum Case

It required qualities of real generalship to land one Malden inebriate in jail, and all because a Belgian police dog, owned by the intoxicated individual, refused to leave its master.

Patrolmen C. T. Costello and J. T. Holland responded with the wagon on a call for officers and found the inebriate in Jackson street sound asleep. When they approached they were driven off by the dog. Costello then sounded the patrol gong, and the drunk awoke.

He was invited to take an auto ride, and obligingly crawled into the patrol. The dog jumped in and rode to the station. There the drunk crawled out of the patrol and by some clever work on the part of the police the man was closed inside the station door and the dog outside.

ADLOW APPEARS ON GRAND JURY SUMMONS

Representative Elijah Adlow of Roxbury, who two weeks ago, in the House, attacked the Suffolk County district attorney's office for alleged failure to prosecute certain brokers and bucketshops, appeared today before the Suffolk County Grand Jury.

The legislator was served with a Grand Jury summons by Police Inspector Harry Pierce, attached to District Attorney O'Brien's office.

For nearly an hour Adlow remained in the grand jury room, in which the district attorney and Asst. Dist. Atty. Maurice Caro were present.

SECURED PAPERS.

During the procedure, the assistant district attorney emerged from the room and went to the superior criminal court clerk's office, returning with papers. Later he again came out and returned from the same office with books.

Two weeks ago, Adlow, on the floor of the House, attacked the district prosecutor's office in an address that included the statement "bucketshops flourish as never before."

On the following day, learning that Adlow was in one of the civil court sessions, the foreman and clerk of the grand jury waited for him and requested him to appear before the body in connection with his remarks in the House. Adlow declined.

CLAIMED PRIVILEGE.

Later District Attorney O'Brien gave out a statement, signed by the foreman and clerk, and stating that Adlow had been misquoted by the Hearst House reporter.

When shown this statement, the legislator denied that he had been misquoted. The reporters, he declared, had quoted him correctly, but he had said had not been printed. He claimed his remarks were privileged.

YEAR AND A HALF FOR 'FIXER' IN AUTO CRASH

John Brunelli of the West End, in Municipal Court today received sentences totalling eighteen months for alleged theft of money and automobile and impersonating an attorney.

According to the testimony, Brunelli was on the spot when Samuel Smith of Gardner street, West End struck a child with his automobile.

Brunelli stepped up to Smith, told him he was an attorney and would fix the case for $50. Smith said he didn't have $50, but had $25. Brunelli is alleged to have accepted this and then to have "worked" him for the car for three days, to "go round and see people in the case."

Some days later Smith went on a hunt for the car and the attorney, both of whom were long overdue. He found the car in a West End garage and brought about Brunelli's arrest.

Object to Building

Because the town planning board in Dedham has ruled against the erection of mercantile buildings on Church street, the Dedham Transcript, Inc., has given up the idea of erecting a new plant in that section. Property owners objected to the plan.

NO FIGHT ON BILL, SAYS SLEMP

Implies Manufacturers O. K.'d Scheme by Failure to Arouse Opposition

By BERT FORD.

President Coolidge recommended the making of army and navy shoes by the inmates of the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, according to announcement made by his secretary, C. Bascom Slemp, in a letter to the Boston American.

Secretary Slemp further asserts that there was no opposition to the Deficiency Bill in Congress.

Passage of the measure has stirred the shoe industry and labor organizations in that it authorizes exclusive manufacture of army and navy and Indian reservation shoes by the inmates of the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas.

The Leavenworth shoe factory bill became law on February 11 and the Deficiency Bill carrying necessary appropriations was finally passed on March 2 of the present year. Shoe manufacturers complain that it was rushed through without official notice to their associations.

The following was received from the secretary to the President:

SLEMP'S LETTER.

"I beg to acknowledge, on behalf of the President, your telegram, protesting against establishment of a shoe factory at the Leavenworth Penitentiary. There is, I think, a good deal of misunderstanding regarding the legislation in question, and, in order to make the situation more clear to you, I am sending you a copy of the hearings before a Joint Committee of Congress, together with a copy of the President's message containing his own views upon the problem

FAVORED BY COOLIDGE.

"While it will be observed that the hearings were held prior to the time when President Coolidge took office, the action taken was in line with his recommendations, and I may add, is in accordance with the policy pursued by the Atlanta Penitentiary which manufactures all the material used in mail sacks and any further similar products which the capacity of the plant permits. There seems to have been no opposition to the measure in Congress, and the bill was approved on February 11, 1924.

"Very truly yours,

(Signed) "C. B. SLEMP.

"Secretary to the President."

FIRMS WERE MISLED.

An article published in the Shoe and Leather Reporter, March 13, 1924, under the heading "Convict Shoemakers Compete With Free Men," contains the following paragraphs:

"Very little publicity appears to have been given this measure, and the shoe manufacturing industry was not advised of it in any official way, and those who had read or heard of it assumed that the project merely meant that shoes were to be manufactured at the Leavenworth Penitentiary for government penal institutions and hospitals.

"Great was the surprise of the manufacturers when it was learned that this Act, carrying as it did an appropriation of $450,000, was designed to establish at Leavenworth a shoe manufacturing plant for the furnishing of footwear to the army, navy and Indian, as well as minor departments of the government."

PROTEST UNAVAILING.

Tardily discovering the menace of the measure the New England Shoe and Leather Association, the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association and the Tanners' Council sent representatives to Washington. They were joined by kindred organizations from all over the country. United States Senators Lodge and Walsh and Congressmen Feuthingham and Connery of Massachusetts spoke against the measure at an eleventh hour hearing, but it became a law in the face of powerful opposition

Congressman Connery of Lynn, vitally interested, made a ringing speech. He said the effect of such a measure would be "to put convict labor in competition with free labor" and "put the government in business as a competitor of private shoe manufacturers who had served the country faithfully in the late war."

BLIND SOLON LED FIGHT.

Congressman Connery said the shoe business was so highly specialized that it would be impossible to shift it without feeling the effects of diverting $5,000,000 annually which would result from the creation of such a convict shoe plant. He said labor would lose $1,250,000 of the $5,000,000 annually diverted. Mr. Connery assured the Senate committee that the shoe business needed every atom of support and that the proposed enactment would be a serious blow.

The first member of the Massachusetts Legislature to start a drive for action on the remedial part of legislation was Representative William H. McCarthy of Rockland. McCarthy introduced a resolution long before the agitation against the prison shoe factory became general, memorializing Congress against the Leavenworth army and navy shoe factory project.

Representative McCarthy, although blind, has led the fight it this Commonwealth. He delivered a strong speech before the Legislative Committee on Mercantile Affairs condemning the Federal measure as "one of the worst blows ever sustained by Massachusetts industries."

He has been active rallying shoe men to the cause and is locked upon in shoe centres as a real pioneer in the present emergency. Representative McCarthy said today that he feels sure his resolutions will be adopted by both branches of the Legislature.

WIFE SHOT DOWN BY SUITOR SHE SCORNED

MRS. WILHEMINA SOUSA BREDA

Cambridge woman, suing her husband, a photographer, for divorce, was shot down in the doorway of her home by a rejected suitor.

WOMAN BURNED FOUND IN YARD

Salem, April 8.—Attracted by the barking of her dog in the yard of her home, presently found Mrs. Lavinia Wilson of South Peabody badly burned about the body lying in the yard. She was removed to the Thomas Hospital in Peabody and placed on the danger list. It is believed that no one was her clothing became ignited by electric light wires in her home and that she rushed out.

RICH MAN'S DRIVER HELD IN GIRL'S DEATH

Lawrence, April 8 (I.N.S.).—Fred Anderson, chauffeur for Manuel Adams, wealthy Lowell business man, pleaded not guilty to a charge of manslaughter in district court here today. He was held for the grand jury in $1,000 bonds. Adams' machine is alleged to have struck sixteen-year-old Anna Shea of Lawrence. The girl died at the Lawrence General Hospital of injuries.

CAMBRIDGE SUICIDE LOVE-MAD

Mullen Began Wooing When Employe's Daughter Sought Divorce

If her young father is successful in his purpose, little Margaret Breda is going to grow to womanhood ignorant of the fact that her mother was attacked with a gun by a rejected suitor.

Wilhemina Sousa Breda, the child's mother, was called to the doorway of her home at No. 46 Second street, East Cambridge, by John Mullen, the swain who had been told to stay away. Three shots were fired, one of them entering the young woman's right breast and penetrating the lung. Mullen fired the third shot into his own skull, dying instantly.

The girl—she was only twenty-three—had instituted divorce proceedings against her husband, a Cambridge street photographer, on the ground of alleged cruelty.

The case was reached only a week or two ago in the Middlesex county courts and was viewed in many quarters as the way, but had been marked "continued by agreement."

WORKED FOR HER DAD.

Mullen, who is said to have come to Thornton street, East Cambridge, from New York only a few months ago, was employed on a South Willingham street home of which A. Sousa, Mrs. Breda's father, is superintendent. His attentions to their employer's daughter and Mrs. Sousa grew embarrassment.

"This divorce business is quite bad enough," her parents are said to have told Wilhemina. "But this young man's constant attentions are a scandal."

The whole neighborhood talking. Send him away, at least until your suit has been decided."

Mrs. Breda's intimates say she scarcely would have been enamored of "Jack Mullen," for she listened to her father and mother without protest and respected their ultimatum to the young man without emotion.

PLEADED ON KNEES.

Mullen, according to the story as it has been put together by the police, would not be denied, very much in heart. He follow his lessee to the young wife and mother, begged her not to be heartless and assured her of his undying love. He even climbed himself that even Mrs. Grundy could find nothing to gossip about.

"I'll do anything for him, "I am going to be said by my parents. If I had always followed that course there would be nothing in my life to regret."

And then—the story goes—Mullen tried threats.

Wilhemina Sousa Breda finished at him.

"NO," she said, "be yourself! Don't call any of that rot. No woman sniff on me. If you're going to act like a bad boy I won't even speak to you."

Mullen's return to the house was unexpected.

SHOT WITHOUT WARNING.

Mrs. Breda answered the ring and drew back to admit the visitor. Not a word was spoken.

At the first shot, Mrs. Breda screamed.

Neighbors ran to her assistance. Two more shots were heard.

The first person to reach them found Mrs. Breda lying in a pool of blood. The young woman, unconscious, was carried to Cambridge Municipal Hospital. Surgeons said Mrs. Wilson of South Peabody badly burned about the body lying in the yard. She was removed to the Thomas Hospital in Peabody and placed on the danger list. It is believed that no one was her clothing became ignited by electric light wires in her home and that she rushed out.

SCOTT PERRY, STAR STAR PITCHER, IN JAIL

Hornell, N. Y., April 8.—Scott Perry, former Athletic pitching star who jumped to outlaw baseball three years ago, is held in jail charged with having robbed his landlord of $20. He was unable to supply bail. Perry had been living at the house of Otto Maukert, whose home was raided by prohibition agents. Maukert declared that while he was in jail awaiting trial Perry stole $15 in cash and a $5 stickpin. Perry will appear in court tomorrow morning to answer the charge.

Are You Pale? Rundown? Weak?

Attleboro, Mass.—"Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery Tablets have done wonders for me in accomplishing what home prescribed remedies failed to do. My friends had become alarmed at my emaciated and rundown condition; I seemed to be weaker from day to day, attended with much loss of flesh and extreme pallor, loss of appetite, cold and numb hands, acid stomach, and pains in my side and back. A decided relief came after using two bottles of the Discovery, and with continued use I have steadily improved. I now eat and sleep well, my circulation is better, numbness gone, color restored, and in fact my general health is much improved."—Mrs. J. C. Boehme, 16 Charles St.

Lift Out Your Corns

ICE-MINT
THE NEW DISCOVERY ENDS ALL
Foot Troubles

This new discovery, made from a Japanese product, is certainly a wonder the way it draws out inflammation from a pair of swollen, burning, aching feet. It takes the soreness right out, then the corn or callous shrivels and lifts off.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes just shrivel up and lift off so easy. It is wonderful. Just think! Not one bit of pain while applying Ice-Mint or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

You will never have to cut a corn again and run the risk of blood poison. Say good-by to your old corn salve, plasters and bunding tape for that pet corn of yours is sure to be a "goner" if it ever feels the magic touch of Ice-Mint.

It imparts such a delightful soothing, cooling feeling to the feet that you will sigh with relief.

Ice-Mint is the real Japanese secret for fine, healthy little feet. It prevents foot odors and keeps them sweet and comfortable. It is greatly appreciated by women who wear high heel shoes.

Just ask in any drug store for a little Ice-Mint and give your poor, suffering, tired, restless feet the treat of their lives. It costs little and there is nothing better.

CIVIL WAR VETS TAKE PART IN CEREMONY

In a drive to secure 20,000 new members, Civil War veterans united with World War heroes in dedicating the "battle-front" on Boston Common today. In the picture General Edwards is seen driving a stake in the ground. He is surrounded by soldiers who fought sixty years ago in the Civil War.

is illustrating the success of its drive for 20,000 new members.

Starting near the Parkman bandstand, the Legion tank is directed at twenty objectives, each representing the addition of 1000 members. The objectives consist of barbed wire, chevaux-de-frise, mines, machine gun nests, ravines, creeks and enemy trenches.

The final objective is expected to be attained by April 19. Joining with the Legionaires at the dedication ceremonies were nine members of the Worcester Post 10 G. A. R., including Alexander H. Johnson, who was the drummer boy of the 54th Massachusetts (colored) Regiment and is depicted on the famous Shaw Memorial tablet, commemorating the regiment, opposite the State House.

The staff directing the Common campaign comprise Clarence R. Edwards, Commander-in-Chief Francis J. Goode, directing the drive; Leo Spillane; Carrol Swan, chief of staff; Alden H. Kenyon, Intelligence; John Burkley, finance; John Crowley, divisional adjutant; A. H. Wood, Jr., battlefield plans.

The tank is operated by Eli Baker, Arlis Wilson and C. H. McMillin of the 9th Tank Corps.

Alice Delysia and other members of the Town Topics company appeared at the first of the daily noon hour ceremonies which today was in charge of the Crossup-Pichon Post, the advertising men's post of the Legion.

CIVIL WAR VETS ASK FOR CLEAN MEMORIAL DAY

Only 3,609 Members Left in Massachusetts G. A. R. Post

A plea that the time will come when Memorial Day may not be profaned by sports "and events that mar the services which a patriotic people offer to the nation's dead" was made at the fifty-eighth annual encampment of the Department of Massachusetts, G. A. R., today.

The encampment opened in Augustus P. Gardner Hall, State House. It will close tomorrow with the installation of officers.

Department Commander George W. Pratt opened the proceedings with the reading of his report, in the course of which he asked that Memorial Day be observed with dignity.

His report showed the membership of the veterans' organization has decreased from 24,261 in 1892, the peak of membership, to 3,609 on December 31, 1923. In 1923 346 members "have been mustered out by death." Commander Pratt also reported that last year five posts surrendered their charters, leaving 174 active posts in the State.

"As our average age is now eighty-one years," he said, "it cannot be expected that we shall hold together in any post for many years, but all praise should go out to those comrades who keep their post alive while having only a few members."

The youngest comrade is Charles W. Smith of Rockland, sixty-nine years old, while the oldest is Henry D. Lay of West Newbury, 100 years old.

BRICK HURLED IN WINDOW OF DR. J. F. RYDER

Food Inspection Official Is Warned by "K. K. K." to Leave Cambridge

A sidewalk brick wrapped in a paper bearing the scrawl, "Leave town immediately if you value your life. K.K.K.," was hurled through the window of Dr. James F. Ryder's apartment, No. 3 Dana street, Cambridge, he reported to the police today.

The paper was of the kind used for wrapping bundles in neighborhood stores.

Dr. Ryder is a Federal government official, attached to the food inspection department, and is prominent in Cambridge.

The brick crashed through the window Sunday night, but Dr. Ryder, believing it to be the work of boys, said nothing. Today, however, he decided that the incident might have a serious aspect and turned the matter over to the police, who began a investigation.

Their health and beauty are in my keeping

A HEALTH BEAUTY TALK BY THE HEALTH DOCTOR

CHILDREN are lovely because perfect health puts roses in their cheeks and sparkle in their eyes. Sickness has not touched them. Their bodies are vital with energy. The charm of happiness is in their smiles.

Any true mother would sacrifice her life, if need be, to cherish and safeguard the health and good looks of her youngsters—by keeping them well.

The health rule in millions of families is: Lifebuoy when you get up, after play or work, before eating and always before going to bed.

A mother said to me, "I wonder if I worry too much about dirt."

The Health Commissioner's answer

Let me repeat what a famous Health Commissioner told me recently. He said:

"I am convinced that most communicable disease is caused by touching things which many people handle. If everyone would purify the hands thoroughly and often, we would have no epidemics and a tremendous decrease in colds, fevers and minor skin ailments. A true health soap must be so mild and pure that it can be used constantly."

Gracious to skin—and beautifying

Lifebuoy is absolutely pure. Its constant use is highly beneficial to the most sensitive skin. You cannot safeguard health spasmodically. You can't wait until sickness comes. Because it can be used many times a day, Lifebuoy protection is constant.

The pure vegetable oils of palm fruit and cocoanut used in Lifebuoy are recognized as being most beneficial to the skin. I believe Lifebuoy to be the best soap you can buy at any price to keep your skin vigorously alive, with the charm of rosy health.

I have talked to hundreds of mothers who have used Lifebuoy for years. Almost without exception, they credit to Lifebuoy a wonderful improvement of the skin. I use it constantly and my skin is clear, soft, finely textured and healthy.

The gentle Lifebuoy antiseptic imparts a peculiar mildness to the rich, creamy lather. It safeguards health and promotes skin beauty. The skin responds to Lifebuoy lather with the healthy underglow of a radiant complexion.

I promise that you'll like it

Place Lifebuoy wherever there is running water. You will like the antiseptic, vanishing odor, for it assures you that you and your children are safely clean. You will become genuinely fond of Lifebuoy—it is so gracious to the skin—so gentle in its sure protection.

The Health Doctor

The* Health Doctor *Says:

LIFEBUOY is pure... It agrees with the most sensitive skin... I use it constantly and my skin is clear, soft, fine-textured and healthy... It removes germs and prevents skin infections... I promise that you'll like it.

The Beautiful, but Bluntly Honest Story of a Boston Girl

By ELENORE MEHERIN

Seething Life of a Lovely Boston Girl of This Strange Today

"Shall I have my hair bobbed?" she asked.

"ARE you so impatient, Barry?"

"Yes. I never could understand this waiting on the pleasure or the luck of the future when we have the present in our hands. It's reckless, I suppose, but I think this existing order is only adapted for the comfort and happiness of the old and the half dead. It's not made for us! Who was that Frenchman—Anatole France? who said we should be born old and grow young. He had the goods."

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes—

(Mr. Forbes will be in Boston from April 21 until April 26. During that time he will fill several speaking engagements and come in close contact with New England problems of business and finances.)

The two men who are probably now the richest in the world have very different views on how workers should be treated.

These two men are Henry Ford and John D. Rockefeller, Jr. While I do not know for a certainty, I rather think that the younger Rockefeller today has more wealth than his father in his own name. • •

Ford declares bluntly that workers come to a plant to work. Outside of getting them to work to the limit and paying them very well for doing so, he does not feel called upon to make their association with his business mean anything more in their lives. They have no organization. They have no representation. Ford simply issues orders.

Later I may quote at some length Ford's views and chronicle Ford's practices.

Young John D. Rockefeller, on the other hand, is a staunch believer in giving "adequate representation to workers that they feel yielding "adequate means of discovering grievances and promptly adjusting them."

Ford's factories are governed solely from the top.

Both these men have lately put their views and their practices into book form. In "The personal relation in industry" just issued by Boni & Liveright, young Rockefeller emphasizes that "the parties to industry are four in number: Capital, management, labor and the community."

• •

Mr. Rockefeller emphasizes the benefits which have flowed from the plan of industrial democracy installed by the Colorado Iron & Fuel Company, and later by other Rockefeller companies. Mr. Rockefeller's whole conception of what business is and should be, how workers should be treated, how employers should act, can be summed up as follows, this being what Mr. Rockefeller calls an "industrial creed" which he suggests should be subscribed to by each of the four parties to industry, capital, labor, management and the community:

"(1) I believe that labor and capital are partners, not enemies, and that their interests are common, not opposed, and that neither can attain the fullest measure of prosperity at the expense of the other, but only in association with the other.

"(2) I believe that the community is an essential party to industry and that it should have adequate representation with the other parties.

"(3) I believe that the purpose of industry is quite as much to advance social well-being as material prosperity; that in the pursuit of that worthy end the interests of the community should be carefully considered, the wellbeing of employees fully guarded, adequate investments adequately recompensed, and capital justly compensated, and that failure in any of these particulars means loss to all four parties.

"(4) I believe that every man is entitled to an opportunity to earn a living; to have the right to reasonable hours of work and proper working conditions; to a decent home, to the opportunity for himself to be loyal to country and to love, as well as to toil, and that the responsibility rests as heavily upon industry as upon Government or society to see that these conditions and opportunities prevail.

"(5) I believe that diligence, thrift, initiative and the spirit of service should be encouraged and adequately rewarded; that intelligence, character and restriction of production should be discouraged; and that service is the only justification for the possession of power.

Fresh Highs for Current Year Are Set by Active Rails in Mixed Market

'M. AGGIE PFD. RALLIES OVER 4 POINTS

Fresh highs for the current year were set by active rails in a mixed New York stock market with money renewing at 5 per cent.

In Boston trading American Agricultural Chemical pfd. was up 4½ points. Boston Elevated pfd. sagged 2.

On the big board Norfolk & Western and both Missouri Pacific issues were at fresh 1924 tops with gains of around a point. Louisville & Nashville was at a new year's high.

GULF STATES OFF.

Gulf States Steel was at a new 1924 low, off over a point. General Electric was up over at its best, but was erratic.

Crucible was off a point. Davison was off 2. Willys Overland dropped 2.

Vanadium Steel broke 3¾ points to a new minimum price for the year.

Texas & Pacific moved up about a point.

American Water Works issues continued strong, the common extending its early gain to 2¾ points and the 7 per cent. preferred climbing 1, each at its best price of the year.

BOND TREND HIGHER.

Uncertain price fluctuations marked dealings in bonds, with most changes tending toward higher levels. American Agricultural Chemical 7½s, with a 2½ point gain, touched 91 as compared with a recent record low of 82, while Virginia Carolina Chemical and Wickwire Spencer liens rebounded 1 to 1½ points.

Activities of professional traders, who have been picking out weak spots in the fertilizer group, were concentrated today on International Agricultural Chemical 5s, which broke more than 5 points to a record low at 58¾.

HIGHER SUGAR PRICE SEEN BY SHERBURNE

A higher price for sugar is forecast by President E. R. Sherburne of E. R. Sherburne & Co., sugar, flour, feeds dealers, State street. Mr. Sherburne tells the financial editor of the Boston American:

"The raw sugar market during the past four weeks has experienced rather a drastic decline, but this has been caused more or less by the heavy arrivals of raw sugars and lack of an active demand on refined sugars.

"The decline under these conditions is likely to be overdone, especially if holders of raws continue to consign these unsold while there is no improvement in the demand for refined. On the other hand, it must not be overlooked that the production in Cuba from now on will gradually decrease and the season of heavy consumption is ahead. The raw market can turn quickly when the time comes, particularly if the large Cuban holders maintain their attitude of selling sparingly.

"We might add that there has recently been an air talk of the Cuban crop outturning below the original official estimates. To date about 20 per cent. of the crop has already been ground.

"My personal opinion is that the market has about reached bottom and as we are entering the season for actual consumption, believe that values will improve."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. F. X. MAHONEY,
Boston Health Commissioner

DESPITE the fact that residents of Boston have at hand the necessary agencies for the prevention of diphtheria, the disease has shown a marked increase in the past year over the previous year.

The Schick test, which may be taken by residents without cost, will readily determine whether or not one is susceptible to the disease. The toxic-antitoxin inoculation will render a person immune to disease for many years if not for life.

Dr. Mahoney.

The Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital has started a clinic for the Schick test and toxin-antitoxin inoculation for children under five years of age. The clinics each Tuesday afternoon and is located at 720 Harrison avenue. If you have a child under five you will take him to the clinic and have him treated.

The Health Department Boston City Hospital is giving the treatments to all who apply for them.

In the schools the tests are being given the children as rapidly as possible.

If you remember that diphtheria is preventable disease and that every death from it is the result of stupidity or gross carelessness, it will spur you on to see that you are immune as well as the other members of the family.

Diphtheria is particularly dangerous to children. It occurs but infrequently among adults, as a grown person as a rule has sufficient health in the throat naturally to resume the germs. Remember, however, that the Schick test will reveal whether or not you are immune to the disease, no matter what your age. If you are not immune, take the serum treatments before it is too late—and you have contracted the disease.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Will you please tell me about Addison's Disease. Is it necessarily fatal?

A. S.

Addison's Disease is associated with disease of the suprarenal bodies, usually a tuberculous nature, and is characterized by a weak heart, low blood pressure, anemia and intestinal irritation, anaemia, muscular weakness, and often by discoloration of the skin. The discoloration usually begins on the face, neck and hands. Before the use of Adrenalin the disease was invariably fatal; but since the use of the hormone, cures are reported to have been effected, and many lives temporarily relieved. Rest, careful dieting and general hygiene should be observed.

M. still breaches through the mouth and talks thickly. Do you think he has adenoids and if so, would you advise an operation?

Mrs. T. A. S.

Your family doctor or some good throat specialist should see your child and after a careful examination decide whether or not he has adenoids and if so, whether or not an operation is necessary. In cases of adenoids, the child usually breathes mostly through the mouth, is dull and inattentive with mouth open most of the time, due to greater or less degree of deafness caused by the adenoids due to nasal catarrh. The child is apt to snore at night, the speech is thick and articulation is defective, if unprevented, adenoid facies appears on the face and chest wall may result. The results of the operative treatment are usually favorable and often is remarkable how much the appearance in the child both physically and mentally.

I have been told that I have anaemia. What can I do to remedy this condition?

A. B. Lynn.

Anaemia is a term employed to denote a condition in which there is a diminished quantity of hemoglobin or smaller number of its corpuscles than in health. The symptoms are weakness and languor; tendency to headache, palpitation of the heart, dizziness, sleeplessness and irritability; poor appetite and digestion, etc. Since this condition is only a symptom, its treatment depends upon the disease which causes it. In all cases, however, the patient should live in healthy surroundings, regulation of the bowels, and only such food used as the diet we points to be immediately need. Of course, iron tonics are necessary, it should be taken under the direction of a competent physician.

Do you know what success there has been with spinal anaesthesia? It is true that a person is able to talk during an operation when this method is used?

Many thousands of major operations have been performed in this country under the spinal anaesthesia and without doubt it is a most important adjunct to treatment. Great care is necessary in its administration, as in some cases, however. It is not suitable for certain patients. Ask your doctor if one and should not be used in cases of fever and infection of any kind. For this operation, the patient should be placed in the sitting posture of leaning forward or lying on the side with the head and chest forward. It is true that the patient may chat and take an intelligent interest in the operation.

Rosie Asks Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

Just a few lines to let you know that we are feeling well and I hope to hear the same from you. My father died three months ago. We are seven in the family and my mother makes eight. We need some clothes. The girls' sizes are 12, 10 and 2, and the boys are 12, 8 and 5. I live on the fourth floor.

ROSIE.

For Needy Family

Editor Helping Hand:

Have a few articles of clothing I would like to send some needy family. An overcoat, medium size, which is far from new, but I'm sure would do some one, and also two pairs of ladies' shoes. These are not new, but fine shoes, some worn and some almost new. If you will send me an address, will be glad to forward the same.

MRS. T. H.

Thank you. We have sent you the address of Mrs. M. M., who will be glad to receive what you offer.

Sends More Money

Editor Helping Hand:

Distribute the enclosed to those who are deserving and in need of assistance.

ANON.

Thank you again. In this same mail came a letter from one of our most generous helpers calling our attention to the case of Mrs. L. B., who is lying in bed with her little baby, her sixth, having. She is trying to pay rent and feed nine on $18 a week. We are sending your generous gift of ten dollars to her to buy food.

Radio Queries

I have a three-tube regenerative receiver, using all VV201A tubes with 90 volts on the amplifier tubes and 22½ to 45 on the detector tube. I have had the set two weeks and received twelve stations. The only trouble seems to be a whistling through which I hear the station.

H. K.

It is possible that you tune the receiver on the oscillation point, and it is an oscillation squeal you hear. Trouble may also be in the amplifier, which can easily be discovered by listening to the detector alone. Also not whether the noise continues when antenna and ground are removed.

1.—In reference to the circuit used at WJAR, which end of coil should be nearest the variometer? 2.—What is the value of the by pass condenser used? 3.—Which end of the secondary winding on the coil should connect to the movable plates of the .001 mfd. variable condenser? 4.—Could I VV201 tubes for the amplifier, and if so what plate voltage?

C. J. M.

1.—The filament end of the secondary is nearest the variometer. This makes the grid end nearer the primary winding. 2.—.00025 mfd. 3.—End right out. 4.—Yes, but the A tubes are more economical. It should have 90 volts.

Can a two-tube American Super with WD12 or UV199 tubes operate successfully? If so, how much battery is needed?

C. W. V.

A two-tube Super will not give as great a range as a regenerative set with one stage amplifier, although it will be quieter and easier to operate. B battery is 45 volts on amplifier and 18 to 22½ on detector. The 201A tubes will give much better service.

I am writing to let you know how much I like the American Super. It is by far the best set I have ever seen, and I would be glad to test it against any other set on the market. I am using a 201A in the 1st V., a 200 for detector and two 201A's for the audio amplifiers. I have not reached the Pacific Coast yet, but have done nearly everything else. Below is a list of stations with dial readings which may help other fans using Waltham condensers and Simmons coils. My dials read from 1 to 100, from right to left.

Which Kind of Husband-Wife Are You?

There Are MANY Husbands and Wives of the Kind Shown Here, and There Ought Not to Be ANY

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

THE WRONG KIND OF HUSBAND — THE WRONG KIND OF WIFE

This picture is a part, much reduced, of one of Mr. McCay's big cartoons.

The cartoon was used with an editorial about the history of marriage. In the early days the savage knocked his chosen wife senseless, as a preliminary step in courtship, then married her and was respected by her because he had the strength to knock her down.

We have progressed from that, but there are too many of the marriages that THIS picture illustrates.

There are too many men proud of the fact that "my wife is under my thumb"—too many women, although they perhaps don't SAY it, proud to know THEIR'S is the ruling thumb in the household.

In marriage there should be no boss, no ruler, but partnership, equality, friendship and respect.

Is the Sun Inhabited?

Ask the Worms Watching the Live Lion

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

It is a poor kind of man that does not—once in a while—take his eye off the current news, or his own back yard, and look off into space and among the stars.

The big suns crowd each other in the Milky Way. Some of them are double, and swing around each other like waltzing couples. Some are strangely, beautifully colored. All are in motion inconceivably swift, rolling through millions of miles of space in a few hours—yet going slowly compared with their huge volume.

We poor little pigmies, dragged along by one of the smaller suns, following that shining guide as mosquitoes follow the lantern on a buggy, HAVE SETTLED THE SUN QUESTION FINALLY.

We say, and we tell our children—the mosquito larvae—that the sun, dragging us through space, and all other suns, are simply big, red-hot blazing globes—just HOT, nothing else. They have no inhabitants, no purpose, except to heat this little earth and the other tiny planets in our solar family.

How funny that must seem to the great soul or souls that inhabit our sun. We shall smile kindly if we know what the cheese mite thinks of us as we slice the cheese or carry it home. We are cheese mites to the suns, or, rather, invisible, microscopic cosmic bacilli, too little for notice.

Nothing could be more unimaginative or more amusing than the calm assumption of astronomers that our sun is merely a burning mass of inanimate matter—SIMPLY BECAUSE IT IS NOT COLD ENOUGH AND QUIET ENOUGH to make a good home for microbes like us.

Imagine two white worms, grubs, looking at a roaring, bounding, dashing lion.

One worm would say to the other:

"Look at that thing, noisy, hot, dashing aimlessly about. It is useless and uninhabited now. Some day it will cool off, be quiet and make a nice, peaceful home for worms and their high civilization."

That is how we little worms look at our big, blazing, roaring sun.

We say: "It is too hot now, too violent and active for US, and, therefore, it is a useless thing."

We look at our sun as the worms by the roadside look at the live lion. We think that, because WE cannot live on it, it must be dead.

When we shall have lived here and studied the universe for a few more millions of years we shall probably know more about the sun that lights and guides us.

We'll know that there is in the sun a great, conscious, animated spirit—as there is an animating spirit in the roaring lion, although the worms cannot recognize it.

We shall probably find out that there are things in this universe more important than a little man feeding himself here and getting ready for Heaven hereafter.

Among them we shall place in first rank the big suns that are the really important children of Divine Wisdom—as far above us as we are above the worms that wait for the lion to die that they may inhabit him.

A Chance for You

Get the Duke's House

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

If you would like to live in England for awhile, you may rent the Duke of Norfolk's finest country place, "Arundel Castle," for $40,000 a year. That's cheap, being less than one per cent. of the five million dollars spent on the castle within recent years.

If that doesn't tempt you, you could get "Norfolk House," the town residence of England's premier Duke. That's the house in which George III. was born. If you do decide to rent it, don't forget to take along a picture of George Washington and hang it up in that room where George III. was born. It would interest the two Georges, as they sit above in heaven, with their old fight entirely forgotten, to look down and see that picture in the room where George the Third did his first squealing.

LISTEN, WORLD! -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

I HAVE a very urgent appeal on my desk. It comes from a lady who wishes me to urge government endowment for talented men and women. Just how she would separate the Talented from the Untalented she does not state. Personally, I think it would need a Regiment of Death armed with machine guns to tackle the job. However, my correspondent glides smoothly over that ticklish point. Presumably, Geniuses are to be detected as one detects a red head or an onion breath. Be that as it may, she'd have Uncle Sam endow them. The Geniuses, having been separated from the common herd, would have every earking care removed. All their bills would be paid. Never would they have to stoop to the mire of commercialism to satisfy the gas collector. In other words, the Genius would have naught to do but Geen, as it were.

"Then, at last," exclaims the lady, "we would have Art in America."

I hate to differ with such an idealistic spirit, but it's my private conviction that we'd merely have the world's prize crop of Bums.

Now, I'm not speaking from malice or ignorance. I have broken bread with the artistic tribe. (I usually paid for the bread.) I know their habits and their haunts. I am, more or less, one of them. I earn my living by pushing a pen and pounding the typewriter. Moreover, if anyone wishes to endow me I'll send them my address by return mail. But honesty constrains me to state that if I were endowed, by Uncle Sam or any other poor sap, my artistic output wouldn't be as valuable as third-grade roofing paper. I'd sit right down on my job and let the Hoi Polloi feed me whipped cream from a spoon. That's just about how much art I'd contribute to America. And I'm no exception to the rest of my breed, only a bit more frank.

I care not how rare the talent nor exquisite the expression, if it is not backed by decent, human standards, it's worthless. The man who will let someone else pay his bills and assume his responsibilities, is a Dead Beat whether he be a poet or a plumber. And he will produce exactly what a Dead Beat might be expected to produce.

Personally, I haven't a particle of friendliness for Hard Labor. When they laid that curse on Adam, they certainly did their meanest. But there it is, and the whole fabric of our life is built about that obligation. Our code of honor, our tests of character, our rewards of merit are all based on Work and the relationship of Work to life. If you don't establish that relationship you're a flat fire by American standards. It goes even deeper than national standards—it's part of the natural plan which you can't buck and hope to win. You may by luck or laziness escape labor, but you can't escape the consequences of that escape within yourself. Something will be lacking in you—something as obvious to other human beings as the lack of a nose. You will no longer speak the universal language nor share the universal adventure. You may create for your own pleasure, but the creation which isn't backed by human need lacks the vitalizing spark.

That's why it wouldn't pay to endow talented folks. Deprive them of the ordinary incentive to work, exempt them from the common risks and you'll have nothing but a bunch of brilliant fungi. FOR, AFTER ALL, THERE IS NO ART IN THE WORLD AS GREAT AS THE ART OF HUMAN SERVICE. WE HAVE BEEN DRAGGED UP FROM THE MUD NOT BY THE CHISEL OR AN ANGELO NOR THE PALETTE OF A REMBRANDT, BUT BY THE SWEAT OF COMMON MEN WHO EARNED THEIR KEEP AND PAID THEIR BILLS.

Giver Now in Need

Editor Helping Hand:

Two weeks before Christmas my oldest boy met with an accident. Oh, what a looking face, bone broken in nose and a scar he will carry to his grave! The first week in January I had a fire here. The chimney caught fire and ruined one room and part of another. Bed clothes burned and practically everything we had for outside clothes destroyed. On March 1 my husband lost his job, and ever since I have been trying to keep the wolf from the door. On Saturday he got a little work to do—and was hurt. When he got home to me and I saw his sleeve empty I surely went to pieces altogether. He is badly injured, but will recover. Anything in your power for aid to us will be greatly appreciated, as I have nothing coming in only a few cents here and there for a little work I can do.

MRS. G. C.

Last year Mrs. G. C. offered help through the Helping Hand, and now that such dire misfortune has overtaken her we are glad to be able to offer help to her. We are sending her ten dollars from the Helping Hand Fund, and hope there will be clothing offered for her boys, 11 and 12, but large for their ages.

Help for Family

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a list of things and would like to have you send me the address of one or two families in need of these things.

MRS. C. R. H.

Thank you. We have sent you the address of Mrs. J. B., who can use all you offer. Her husband is sick and things look pretty black to her.

Supports Five Children

Editor Helping Hand:

Please help me out a little. My husband is dead, and I am working to support five children. I cannot seem to make ends meet. They all need clothes, shoes and underwear. I am destitute my-

DR. FRANK CRANE ON WORK AS BEST MEDICINE

By Dr. Frank Crane

MISS MARGARET BONDFIELD, the recently appointed Parliamentary Secretary to the British Labor Ministry, said the other day:

"I believe every woman should know what it means to have to work for a living; I believe that girls who are workers before their marriage are better qualified as authorities on cost of living details and as household managers than the average girl of the sheltered life. Work lends a woman poise, one of the greatest gifts in the world; one that is essential to the gaining of any disputed right."

Miss Bondfield herein has sung a song that ought to be on every talking machine record in the world.

She has preached a sermon that ought to be amplified and emphasized in every pulpit of the world.

She has set in vibration a message that ought to be sent out by radio through the earth daily.

It is an old gospel, but it seems rather difficult to find anything that is both new and true. All parents should teach it to their children, all teachers should impress it upon their pupils, and every grown soul that is looking for salvation should lay it to heart, for in it lies the redemption of the individual, the secret of happiness, the way to health and about every other good and wholesome thing that one can think of.

It is—WORK.

Work means performing some kind of service for our fellows which they are willing to pay for. Anything else that may be called work is ornamental.

And, as Miss Bondfield intimates, regular and responsible work is as necessary for women as it is for men.

The best cure for flappers is work. As a rule those who work do not flap.

The best remedy against vamps is work. For, while it can be done, it is rather difficult to work and vamp at the same time.

The best medicine for dissatisfied wives is work. Probably as many women drift into one corner of the eternal triangle because of having no regular occupation as for any other reason.

That so many women past fifty become restless, soured and dissatisfied is because they have never learned any trade or profession.

And better than having any sort of life insurance money would it be, on the death of her husband, for a woman to have mastered some useful calling.

Of course, there are times; there are circumstances; and there are exceptions; but the general rule remains that nature has so constituted all human beings that, unless they are mainly engrossed in some kind of labor and service for their fellowmen, and that service of such a nature that their fellowmen are willing to pay them for it, the chances are strongly against their being healthy, decent and normal.

Faith is good and hope is better and love is best of all but no one or two of them or all three of them are of much avail to the man or woman who has not learned the joy of work.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON PUBLIC SPEAKING

By Garrett P. Serviss,

THE shortest and easiest way seems to have been found to rival Demosthenes and Cicero without possessing the gifts of those distinguished ancients. Simply buy a book of prepared speeches — "hand-me-down" speeches they would have been called in the generation that laughed at the humor of Edward Harrigan.

"We publish," says a circular that I have received, "a collection of 100 prepared speeches, on the most-called-for subjects, for only $5.00, prepaid, or a single speech which we have already prepared, but not listed, for $1.25. Or we will prepare a speech especially for you on any desired subject at the rate of $4.00 per thousand words."

All the work, it is affirmed, "is done by college or university graduates, carefully studied by a competent literary critic and changes made where necessary."

"The greatest orators of history," goes on the circular, "borrowed material from others, and the majority of speeches delivered on the floors of Congress are prepared by a corps of research workers constantly engaged in their preparation in the Library of Congress."

If rumors are true, however, it is not often thought necessary to deliver these hard-boiled speeches "on the floor of Congress," but only to hand them over to the public through the courteous process of "permission print."

I read further: "We have sold over 50,000 speeches and have satisfied users among College Professors, County Superintendents of Schools, Teachers, Lawyers, Politicians and Members of Chambers of Commerce, Lodge and Fraternity Members, Club Managers and Mayors, Students, Club Members, Business and Professional men of every kind."

There is nothing new under the sun and no doubt the practice of delivering speeches prepared by somebody else is a very old one; for the world has always been full of pretenders, capable of finding gratification in wearing another person's honors. The orator's abilities are somewhat unevenly bestowed by nature, and when they are really possessed they confer a distinction which seems to offer a remarkable lure to persons who have not been similarly gifted. They do not always accompany the highest intellectual powers and strongest moral character, though sometimes they do.

Abraham Lincoln is an excellent example of the real speaker. Lack of academic training had no effect in diminishing the power that nature gave him, for together with the orator's instinct she bestowed upon him strength and clearness of thought, together with a solidity of character hardly less remarkable than that of George Washington.

What would Robert G. Ingersoll have said of buying a speech to deliver, or what would William Jennings Bryan say of it? Such men know what public speaking is, and in truth the public, too, knows a genuine speech from a genuine speaker when it hears it. The born speaker has a special kind of "personal magnetism," which is infused into his words and which is not to be confounded with elocutionary skill, or a talent for rhetorical declamation. It is an intellectual quality, lying deep in the mentality of its possessor

DO SOMETHING NICE FOR MOTHER

You Dads with Daughters, do not spend so much money on them that you have to neglect their mother.

Of course Mother does not demand as much finery, but she needs some of the little bits of wearing apparel, fine and dainty, and certain toilet articles which mean so much to the majority of women.

Mother says you are not to spend more on her than is absolutely necessary, but just the same it pleases her when Dad brings her something every time he does Daughter.

It hurts to think that interest has been transferred, even to Daughter.

She wants to feel that she has a warm place in Dad's heart, that his thoughts turn to her, even when he purchases knick-knacks for the youngsters.

Daughters should be taught that mothers are to be thought of first.

Real mothers have a trying time of it at best.

When there is an opportunity to add a little brightness and joy to your wife's life, even if you must do constantly for the children, do it, old man.
